

Japanese Cruiser, Two Cargo Ships, Sunk by Allies

MacArthur Headquarters
Also Announces Destruction of Six Planes

Japanese Invasion Bases in New Guinea and Timor Bombed

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS,
AUSTRALIA, Friday, May 22 (P)—
Allied submarines have sunk a 7,100-ton Japanese cruiser of the Kako class and two Japanese cargo vessels, of 9,000 and 6,000 tons, it was announced officially today.

General MacArthur's headquarters also said that fourteen Japanese planes had been destroyed or damaged in air raids on Japanese invasion bases in New Guinea and Timor.

There are fourteen ships in the Japanese Kako class, each carrying a normal complement of 604
men. They are the Kako, Hurutaka, Kingusaka, and Aoba, all completed in 1926-27. They are armed with six eight-inch guns.

The communiqué said:
"In the eastern sector, New Guinea: Lae—A surprise attack by allied aircraft from a low altitude destroyed two enemy bombers and one fighter on the ground and damaged two bombers. The enemy intercepted with eight fighters. Three were shot down. We suffered no losses.

Naval operations: Our naval forces in underwater action destroyed the following enemy vessels—one eight-inch cruiser of the Kako class, one 9,000-ton cargo vessel, and one 6,000-ton cargo vessel.

Timor: Koepang—Further details of our recent attack reveal that three enemy aircraft were destroyed and three were damaged."

New Petroleum Product May Help In Making Tires

Makes Raw Materials for Rubber and Aviation Gasoline

NEW YORK, May 21 (P)—A new process by which the raw materials for synthetic rubber and an improved quality of aviation gasoline can be produced simultaneously from petroleum was announced today by W. S. Farish, president of the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey).

The new method, worked out by scientists of the Standard Oil Development Company, a subsidiary technical organization, will be made available to other oil companies under the system of patent licenses now being used, Farish said.

He estimated it would increase by two and a half to three times the potential capacity of plants now under construction for turning out butadiene, a synthetic rubber raw material.

"We estimate that the new method will speed up the war program for production of synthetic rubber from plants already underway and will provide the nation with an increased potential capacity of raw material for more than 400,000 tons of "Buna S" rubber and 240,000 tons of Butyl rubber a year," Farish said.

"This is a new thing with us, a development agreed on in the last two weeks," he added, "and we think it important enough to get excited about."

Farish said the new process would be applied at a Standard Oil aviation gas plant now being built in the south.

Complete Set of False Upper Teeth Improves Health of Maryland Baby

CENTREVILLE, Md., May 21 (P)— Little Rosemary Price, three and a half years old, is chewing solid foods for the first time in her life—but misses her bottle a bit.

She now has a complete set of false upper teeth, and is the second youngest child in American dental records to be fitted with a denture.

Due to a mineral deficiency, little Rosemary's upper teeth decayed as fast as they erupted. She was a bottle baby, even bringing her bottle in visits to Dr. Norman Chanaud, Centerville dentist. On advice of a physician, her upper teeth were extracted, and the diet deficiency was corrected.

No false teeth stocked by manufacturers were small enough for Rosemary's mouth, so Dr. Chanaud took a set of smaller lower teeth, cut them down, and inverted them.
The plate is made to allow for changes later. Dr. Chanaud said

NEW CLIPPER ARRIVAL

Costa Rica's first lady, Mrs.
Yvonne Calderon Guardia, wife of the president of the small Latin-American republic, smiles in greeting as she arrives at Miami aboard the Pan-American clipper. Costa Rica was the first of the nations below the border to follow the U. S. in declaring war on the Axis.

Madeline Webb Makes Another Scene in Court

Angrily Denies She Occupied Room with Co-Defendant

By AMY PORTER
NEW YORK, May 21 (P)—Madeline Webb, on trial for her life on first degree murder charges, protested angrily today when a hotel manager testified that on March 5
she and John D. Cullen, a codefendant, registered for a room as man and wife under the names
"Mr. and Mrs. John R. Clark."

"I did not," she gasped, and sought to rise from her chair at the defense table. Eli Shonbrun, the man whom the state and other witnesses have called her lover, restrained her, pushing her back.
While Cullen smiled in apparent amusement at the scene.

The three are charged with the robbery-slaying of Mrs. Susan Flora Reich, 52-year-old Polish refugee, in a hotel suite on March 4.
The state's case appeared near completion, as the hotel manager, Frank Van Houten, and other minor witnesses testified briefly.
The state's major witness—Murray Hirsch, Shonbrun's uncle, also under indictment for Mrs. Reich's murder—left the stand today without having budged an inch on his story of the killing during almost four days of testimony and cross examination.

Hirsch's testimony put all the blame for the murder on Miss Webb, Shonbrun and Cullen, asserting that they planned Mrs.
Reich's robbery in conversations at the hotel Sutton the day preceding the murder.

Chief Defense Counsel Jacques Buitenkant sought to pin the murder on Hirsch himself, demanding:
"Isn't it a fact that you were the one who attacked that woman?"

Hirsch hotly denied it.
Hirsch, by his own admission a "thief" and a "liar," admitted further today that he had given at least three different versions of events leading up to and following the murder, one to the police, another to the district attorney, and one in court.

Albert De Barbieri, a tax driver, corroborated part of Hirsch's testimony, when he said that he drove two men, whom he identified as Cullen and Shonbrun, from a point near the Sutton hotel to 57th street and Third Avenue between 1 and 1:30 p. m. March 4, the day of the murder. (The state has fixed the time of Mrs. Reich's death in the Sutton room at 1 p. m.)

There, the driver continued, a man, whom he identified as Hirsch, and a woman got into the cab.

Hirsch has related the same events, saying that he and the defendants rode in the cab to a diamond dealer in an attempt to dispose of the $1500 diamond ring cut from Mrs. Reich's finger.

The trial will resume tomorrow at 10:30.

X-rays show some of her second, permanent teeth will be missing but at the age of twelve Rosemary will have a full set of teeth, only a few of them false.

American Dental Association records, Dr. Chanaud added, showed the youngest previous case of false teeth was a child three years and five months old in Peoria, Ill., in 1929. Rosemary is three and seven months old.

Dr. Chanaud followed the Peoria case procedure in making teeth for Rosemary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Roland Price of nearby Kingston.

He reported Rosemary has gained weight on her improved diet, is no longer pale and subject to recurring colds. Also, she is overcoming the shyness her dental trouble had brought.

The false teeth enable her to eat regular solid foods, and Rosemary remarked that she "can't drink my bottle any more."

Pay Check-Off System Planned By Tax Expert

Treasury Considering Plan To Have Employers Collect Taxes

By IRVING PERLMETER
WASHINGTON, May 21 (P)—The treasury asked today for a vast check-off system under which income taxes would be deducted from nearly everybody's regular pay envelope.

Randolph Paul, tax adviser of the treasury, revealed to the press that he had made a formal request to the House Ways and Means committee for authority to require all employers to deduct advance income tax payments from payrolls.
He proposed that the deductions amount to ten per cent of wages, interest or dividends received in excess of a fixed scale of personal exemptions. The deductions, in most cases, would fall far short of paying the income tax bill, but would make it easier to meet the usual March 15 deadline and also help the treasury finance the war between the annual income tax collection dates.

Exemptions for Some Paul said the committee would study the proposal at least another day before making any decision.
Congressional sources indicated that the committee favored the plan in principle, but might want to exempt some types of employers, such as farmers or housewives, from becoming tax collectors.

For most employers, the deduc-tion would be similar to the social security taxes that they already take out of payrolls.
Paul said the proposed exemptions would be based on the regular income tax exemptions which the committee has decided to reduce to $500 a year for single persons, and $1,200 for heads of families. Also figured in would be the $400 a year for each dependent, plus a small amount for other deductions.

It would work this way:
Figures Suggested
A single person would pay out of his regular pay check ten per cent of everything he makes over $11 per week. Thus, if his wage were $25 a week, $14 would be taxable at the rate of ten per cent, which would be $1.40 each week. If the worker is married, his exemption would be $26 a week. If he made $30 per week, the deduction from his pay check would be ten per cent of $4, or forty cents per week.

If he has children or other dependents, he would get an additional exemption of $8.50 each week for each dependent. Therefore, if he had two children, his personal exemption would be $43 a week, and if his salary were $50, he would pay ten per cent of $7, or 70 cents per week.

Every March, under the plan, he would still file an income tax return and figure his tax the same as before. But when he came to paying the tax, he would take credit for the taxes already collected from him by his employer. Then he would pay the difference.

In some cases, Paul said, the paycheck deductions would exceed the amount of tax owed, and then the treasury would refund the difference.

Nationwide Gas Rationing Urged To Save Rubber

Must Also Preserve Automobiles, Brookings Institution Says

By RICHARD L. TURNER
WASHINGTON, May 21 (P)—The Brookings Institution urged strict nation-wide gasoline rationing today for the primary purpose of conserving rubber and automobiles for the performance of essential services. It foresaw probable government requisitioning of private-owned automobiles in 1943.

A survey and report by Charles L.
Dearing, of the private research institution's staff estimated that some 27,000,000 automobiles were now in civilian operation. If this number drops below 20,000,000, it said, "the civilian economy will be threatened with serious disruption."
First and hardest hit would be rural areas and the transportation of workers to and from their jobs.

Tire Supply Low
The tire supply, Dearing said, consisted of the tires on the 27-000,000 cars plus about 8,000,000 new tires now frozen in the hands of dealers and government agencies.

"If normal driving habits continue," the report added, "the supply of tires will be completely exhausted by 1945, and the number of cars left in operating condition will drop below the minimum requirement (20,000,000 automobiles) before the middle of 1943."

One Car Per Family
In addition to gasoline rationing, the report urged that no single family be permitted to have more than one car.

All Draft Boards Ordered To Def- er Needed Workmen

War Manpower Commission Takes Steps To Keep Up Production

By FRANCIS M. LE MAY
War Manpower Commission took steps today to make certain that men irreplaceable in war production are deferred from the draft and remain at their work benches.

Paul V. McNutt, manpower chief, announced an eight point program to promote "the fullest utilization of the manpower of this nation."
This included a directive to the selective service system that local draft boards consult with federal employment service offices before calling to the army individuals
"skilled in a critical war occupation."

A spokesman said this meant "we will keep skilled men in industry where they belong."

The selective service system already had provided for deferment of men in critical occupations, but McNutt said there were some local draft boards "which defer too easily" and others which "seem to regard it as a breach of patriotism to defer anybody for occupational reasons."

Will Classify War Plants Today's action also provided for a classification of war plants according to their urgency, and for a system of manpower priorities to assure that the most important plants get ample supplies of skilled men.

McNutt said the eight point program, to become effective June 1, would direct that:

1. The United States employment service prepare and maintain a list of those skilled occupations essential to war production in which a national shortage exists. Such occupations will be designated as critical war occupations.

2. The War Production Board classify war plants and war products in the order of their urgency in the war program.

3. The employment service make preferential referrals of workers to employers engaged in war production in the order of their priority before making referrals to other employers.

Will Interview Individuals
4. Employment service proceed immediately to analyze and classify the occupational questionnaires distributed by the selective service system, to interview those individuals with skills in critical war occupations and to refer them to job openings in war production work.

5. Selective service instruct all its local boards located in a community served by the employment service to secure the advice of the local public employment office before classifying or reclassifying an individual skilled in a critical war occupation.

6. Employment service increase its activities and facilities necessary to provide additional agricultural workers.

7. The farm security administration to increase the number of mobile labor camps in order to make available workers in agriculture to achieve the "food for victory" objective.

8. The Office of Defense Transportation and Farm Security Administration assure adequate transportation facilities to move migrant agricultural workers.

Ham, Bacon and Pork Under Price Ceiling

WASHINGTON, May 21 (P)— Ham, bacon and other pork products were placed under permanent price ceilings today at the wholesale level.

The order, replacing a temporary sixty-day ceiling in effect since mid-March, fixes prices of dressed hogs and wholesale pork cuts at levels no higher than those actually pre-valing during the March 3-7, 1942 period.

which packed the circuit court room jammed behind him. Commonwealth Attorney Daniel Boone Smith had just completed closing argument and asked the jury of men from adjoining Bell county to sentence Shepherd to the electric chair.

Taken to Hospital
As Smith walked to the prosecution table and Judge James S.
Forester started to address the jury
the shot rang out.

Amid screams from women and children in the crowd, court attaches rushed to Shepherd's side. They carried him from the courtroom and to the hospital.

German Rejection of Mexico's Protest over Ship Torpedoing May Bring Declaration of War

RUSSIANS WATCH PERFORMANCE OF U. S. M-3 TANKS

Officers of the Russian Army are shown watching a performance by M-3 tanks at Fort Benning, Ga. A few of these juggernauts are seen in the background. In front of the group of officers are Col. Paul Berezin, Russian aviation attaché; Col. Gustave Guenther, U. S. Army; and Major Peter Barabanchikov, Red Army engineer.

Japs Attempting To Force Early Victory in China

Land Large Force near Fochow for Major Offensive

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHINGKING, May 21 (P)—The Japanese, apparently intent on knocking China out of the war now or at least seizing forward areas which some day might cradle direct attacks on Japan, have supplemented their broad offensive in Chekiang province with a landing in force near Fochow, Fukien province.

The Chinese high command announced that a dozen Japanese transports yesterday steamed up the Min river a short distance from Formosa, strait, and unloaded troops which, at communicative time tonight, were being heavily engaged by the defenders.

125,000 Japs in Action
With perhaps 25,000 men in the Fochow expedition, the Japanese were believed now to have a total of 125,000 troops in action or deployed for action in Chekiang, Fu-kien and Kiangsi province.

The Fochow action created a second highly active front in the Chekiang-Fukien seaboard area and constituted a new threat at the rear of Chinese forces which only a few hours earlier claimed to have curbed the enemy on the 150-mile Chekiang front, throwing him back in at least one sector.

About 1,500 miles to the west, on the third vital front in Yunnan province adjoining Burma, the Chinese reported they had recaptured Kanglangchao, key point on the Lungkiang-Kiao-Tengyueh highway and seized large quantities of Japanese war supplies.

There was no change in positions along the Burma Road west of the Salween river, the Chinese reported, and the Yunnan front, under Monsoon rains, was becoming stabilized.

Between Yunnan's tangled battle-lines and the complex of fronts developing in eastern China along the East China sea and Formosa Strait, Japanese aviation was engaged in a mighty contributory effort aimed at reduction of airfields and centers of communication giving coherence to the Chinese war effort.

NAZI DEFENSE LINE BROKEN AT KHARKOV

Furious Russian Assault Wipes Out Key German Stronghold and Nets Reds Six Mile Advance

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, May 21 (P)—The heavily fortified Nazi defense line guarding Kharkov has been breached at one point in a furious forty-minute onslaught which wiped out a key German stronghold and carried Marshal Semeon Timoshen-ko's tanks and troops on six miles into an open battlefield held only by German infantry and scattered pillboxes, Red Star asserted tonight.

Along with this swift new sweep toward Kharkov, prime prize of ten days of the fiercest fighting of the spring campaign, the army newspaper outlined these developments on the eve of the twelfth month of the war:

In the Far North: picked Russian troops, wading waist-deep in icy water, skirted twelve and a half miles around an enemy flank in Karelia, killed or wounded 3,000 Finnish and Germans in a surprise assault, then pushed on twelve miles more, cutting one of the enemy's main roads to the north.

Check Counter-Drive
In the south: Gen. Viktor von Schweder's German counter-drive into the Barvenkovka-Izyum sector eighty miles southeast of Kharkov, menacing the flank of the Russian offensive, has been checked. In the

Murray Assured Of Support in Tiff with Lewis

President of CIO Strongly Backed by Auto Workers' Union

CLEVELAND, May 21 (P)— Praised as a man who "is not sitting in Washington in a grouch," CIO President Philip Murray tonight was assured support of CIO's two largest unions against any effort to "break up the labor movement from without or within."

After President R. J. Thomas of CIO's United Automobile Workers made plain to the CIO United Steelworkers Union he would back Murray in any impending showdown with John L. Lewis, Murray expressed appreciation and commented:

"I recently was given a life membership in Ford local 600 of the UAW. I deeply appreciate this because—one never knows."

Murray did not elaborate, but he now holds his CIO office by membership in a local of Lewis's CIO United Mine Workers, and the steelworkers' convention delegates have speculated that a showdown might be impending.

Mentioning no names, Thomas told the cheering steelworkers:

Camacho Calls Cabinet To Take Action in Crisis

Chances Reported "95 Out of 100" War Will Be Declared

President's Views Expected To Be Read to Congress Soon

MEXICO CITY, May 21 (P)— A foreign office spokesman said tonight the government was investigating reports that two more Mexican ships were sunk today off the coast of Brazil.

MEXICO CITY, May 21 (P)—
The foreign office announced tonight the Axis nations had rejected Mexico's note of protest and demand for "complete satisfaction" over the submarine sinking of a Mexican tanker.

"Therefore," the announcement added pointedly, "President Avila Camacho will decide what steps the honor and dignity of the country demand."

The president was reported engaged in drafting a manifesto asking for a declaration of war on Germany, Japan and Italy.

News of the Axis refusal even to receive and consider Mexico's protest came from the Mexican legation in Stockholm.

"The protest had been forwarded to the Axis through the Swedish government because Mexico broke relations with all three countries soon after Pearl Harbor."

It was said authoritatively that the president's manifesto would be read before a special session of Congress within the next day or so, calling Mexico to war.

Although some members of the cabinet were understood to oppose such a step, one informed source said that the chances were "ninety-five out of a hundred" that Mexico would formally declare war on the Axis. Diplomatic relations with Germany, Italy and Japan were broken last December.

The press reported Avila Camacho had summoned his cabinet, his presidential predecessor, General Lazaro M. Cardenas, and high military leaders to meet at the national palace tomorrow to discuss the crisis.

General Cardenas arrived here by plane from his west coast headquarters tonight, stating he had come to "receive my orders" from the president. The general has been removed to be the president's choice for commander of all Mexico's armed forces in the event of war.

Japs To Let Red Cross Inspect Hongkong

BUENOS AIRES, May 21 (P)—
The Argentine foreign office announced tonight that Japan had agreed to permit an International Red Cross representative to visit Hongkong to inspect the treatment of British and Canadian prisoners, but had rejected a proposal for sending a Red Cross supply ship.

Ship Losses Few

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia, May 21
(P)—Navy Minister Angus MacDonald declared today ninety-nine per cent of the ships leaving North American shores for Britain are getting through safely under convoy of warships of Britain, the United States and Canada.

Maryland Bankers Warned Post-War Problems Call for Maximum Effort

BALTIMORE, May 21 (P)—Maryland bankers were warned today that post-war problems of far-reaching nature may extend wartime limitations of private effort indefinitely after the peace.

A. L. M. Wiggins, Hartsville, S.
C., banker and vice-president of the American Bankers Association, speaking at the forty-seventh annual convention of the Maryland Bankers' Association, cautioned against a repetition of the difficult financial period following the last war and said:

No Permanent Surrender
"Let us hope that the one price we will not have to pay for our winning the war is the permanent loss of the rights and privileges of democracy.
One by one we are giving them up as a necessary contribution to maximum war effort. Let us be certain that this giving up is a temporary loan and not a permanent surrender."

The 240 bankers, who usually hold their annual convention at a seaside resort, put aside their usual round of pleasure because of the war effort.

At a dinner tonight, Dr. Elmer Louis Kayser, dean of university students at George Washington University, insisted that "discipline is the only preparation for the democratic trusteeship of the post-war period."

He said it was particularly unfortunate that at the outbreak of the present war "we were largely still absorbed in problems of internal social and economic reform."

Divorced Woman Rides Camel To Court to Rewed

Gabrielle Syroky Marries Magician Who Does Tricks for Judge

LOS ANGELES, May 21. (AP)—Gabrielle Syroky rode a camel to the city hall today to remarry her estranged husband.

Mounting, she was greeted by Ralphie Mohamed Hanagi, an Egyptian Magician known as Gail. He was clad in a flowing galabiyah—it looked a little like an extra long night gown—topped off by a red fez.

Together they entered the court of Judge William S. Baird, before whom the Parolman Miss Syroky had appeared only a month ago to ask and receive $200 a month temporary alimony pending trial of a civil divorce suit.

They were first wed in New York City in 1935 by Egyptian Consul Ismael Twark and divorced in San Francisco two months ago by the Egyptian consul there.

Today Gail expertly produced a ring out of the air and placed it on Miss Syroky's finger.

Then he borrowed a $20 bill from the judge, asked him to autograph it, put it in an envelope and set it afire. Seconds later the magician calmly took the autographed bill from the center of an orange which he cut on the spot.

He returned the $20 to the judge's pocket, but when the judge reached for it he pulled out, in addition, a baby chick.

Everyone agreed it was a fine ceremony, and all adjourned to a nearby cafe for a wedding luncheon. The camel ride? Just an old Egyptian custom, Miss Syroky explained.

Nazi Defense

Crimea, outnumbered but determined Russian troops still clung to the eastern tip of Kerch peninsula, blocking the short cut to the Caucasus.

Adding to this, Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said that behind the German lines strong guerrilla forces recaptured an important city of several thousand population deep in Nazi-occupied White Russia, driving the Germans from a large section and holding it against dawn-to-dusk German assault.

Elsewhere on the central front Russian infantry was said to have slipped through German lines on a raid along rear lines, blowing up two troop trains and killing 1,100 Germans.

On the Kharkov front, where the mid-day communique reported only that the Russians "continued offensive battles," Red Star said "in a number of sectors our troops again advanced."

Reds Halted in South

Close military observers in London said most of the Russian gains during the past forty-eight hours apparently were on the northern half of the Kharkov front, a 125-mile arc from Belgorod to Loozovaya, but that German resistance and the danger of von Schneider's seythe-like flanking thrust had brought the Russians to a halt on the south.

(This version was borne out by Bucharest dispatches reaching Bern which said the Russians were locked with German and Rumanian troops in a "battle of extreme violence" south of Kharkov. These dispatches said the Russians had been forced to withdraw Tuesday from Chingover, twenty miles southeast of the big steel manufacturing center.

Some sources in London expressed the belief that the success of Timoshenko's entire Kharkov offensive hinged on the outcome of von Schneider's tank-led flanking thrust. The German position, these sources said, threatened vital rail and road communications back of the Russian drive.)

Wipe Out Nazi Garrison

Red Star's account of the breach driven in the German defenses before Kharkov said artillery, planes and tanks subjected the strong-hold to a terrific battering just after dawn, followed up by an infantry charge which wiped out the German garrison.

The strong point, an intricate system of fortifications surrounded by minefields and exposed fields of point-blank fire, centered upon a captured village.

The Russians said they then stormed into five surrounding communities, rolling the Germans back into open country.

Red Star said the Germans' loss of some 600 tanks on the Kharkov battlefield had caused them to change their tactics, giving up mass mechanized counter attacks and relying instead on infantry charges supported by only ten to fifteen tanks at a time.

Bicycle Is Stolen

A bicycle reported missing last evening at 8 o'clock was recovered by city police just a half hour later.

The bicycle, which police said belongs to Paul Goetz, Valley road was reported missing by his mother, and a half hour later Arthur McKee and John Spangley brought it into police court and reported finding it in the Rolling Mill yard, off Williams street.

Police are still searching for the thief.

CIVILIAN GIRL EMPLOYES DESIGN OWN UNIFORMS

Civilian girl employees at the Columbus, Ohio, Quartermaster Corps General Depot are shown wearing the uniforms they designed for their own use. They are made of air force blue cloth. Dressed in their new outfits, a number of the girls check in for work. More than a hundred wearers are enthusiastic about the uniform's neat appearance and comparative ease with which it can be kept pressed and cleaned.

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Whatever strategic concept Marshal Timoshenko may have had in hurling his armies against the Kharkov pivot of the Nazi southern front on May 8, the essential fact as the spreading battle enters its third week is that he still holds the initiative.

Hitler has lost another precious two weeks' time if nothing else. To emphasize that loss, the expanding battle in the Ukraine rolls into its third week just one month short of the summer solstice, June 22. That anniversary will be also the beginning of the second year of the Russo-German war. Hitler announced his war on Russia at 5.30 a. m. Berlin time, June 22, 1941.

Whether the Fuehrer thought it fitting to celebrate the longest day of the year by undertaking his greatest military adventure, or the timing of his attack was dictated by more practical considerations is of no consequence. What does matter is that he started too late.

Then Germans Retreated

Five months later, November 22, the Nazi invasion of Russia reached its high-water mark with the capture of Rostov. Just a week more and the great German retreat had begun at Rostov, a retreat that has been reversed nowhere in the last six months except on Kerch isthmus.

What might have happened had Germany been able to strike six weeks earlier last year can only be imagined. What did happen definitely broke the spell of mythical invincibility Hitler had so artfully woven to bemuse much of the world. It also largely timed Japan's "day of infamy" at Pearl Harbor nine days after the Nazi retreat from Rostov started, the first German rearward trek of this war.

Balkan Campaign Costly

The Balkan campaign cost Hitler that vital six-week time loss in Russia a year ago. The Timoshenko offensive in the Ukraine has already cost him a two-week time loss this year in exploiting and expanding his success on Kerch isthmus. To what extent it has also sapped his reserves in tanks, planes and men or compelled further prolonged delay in the launching of the vast new offensive to "annihilate" Russia is yet to be disclosed.

The time element is vastly more important than territory lost or won on Kerch isthmus or the Kharkov front by either side in the last two weeks. And of hardly less importance is the fact that Timoshenko has retained the initiative although his westward march has apparently halted at Krasnodar.

Whether that most dangerous Russian thrust to within three score miles of the vital bridges across the Dnieper was stopped by admittedly stiffening German resistance or held up by the Russian commander for other reasons is not clear.

Red Attacks Spreading

Russian attacks are reported to be spreading now from north of Kharkov around Byelgorod to the Taganrog Sea flank, 400 miles southward. Timoshenko appears bent on widening his front of action by holding attacks to protect his Krasnodar position, or on sucking his foes into major action along his whole front prematurely and before they recover from the shock of his break-through south of Kharkov.

London observers suggest the Nazis may be preparing a vast airborne attack across Kerch strait to gain a foothold in the Caucasus in the rear of the Rostov-Don front. It is a conceivable operation; but the Crimean gateway to the Caucasus does not offer transportation facilities to sustain a major invasion and the terrain east of Kerch strait is an even more formidable barrier than the narrow waterway itself.

It is on the mainland, from Taganrog to Kharkov and around the Dnieper crossings, that the crux of the fight must come, and there is still no indication of Nazi ability to regain the long lost initiative.

Murray

"Our unions will be the ones to battle the forces which try to break up the labor movement from without or within the movement. I know there are some in the union who would like to detract from the record and activities of Philip Murray. I say to those men Philip Murray towers mountain-high above them. Philip Murray never gave his support to a Wall Street lawyer who had aspirations for the presidency and never until recently became a friend of labor."

"Philip Murray was not out preaching isolationism. Philip Murray has not set himself above the president of the country. Philip Murray is not today undermining our great president in this war."

"Philip Murray is not sitting in Washington in a grouch-gripping and nursing sores. Philip Murray does not have himself surrounded by a bunch of 'yes men' afraid to speak their own minds."

"Philip Murray is not subject to fits of anger. Philip Murray would do nothing to wreck the union. Philip Murray does not regard the union as a plaything for an individual."

The UAW leader also said he had traveled throughout the country recently talking to steel and auto workers, clothing and textile workers, and the coal miners, then added:

"They want Philip Murray—and they will have Philip Murray."

Work Under Way To Raise Sunken Liner Normandie

Order To Commence Operations Given by Secretary of Navy Knox

WASHINGTON, May 21. (AP)—The navy announced today that preliminary work has been started on the multi-million dollar job of raising the burned and capsized liner Normandie at its pier in New York city.

The order to go ahead was given by Secretary Knox after he received a report of a special committee recommending that the ship, renamed by the navy USS Lafayette, be salvaged.

The work of salvage will take about a year and after that the vessel must be refitted before it can actually be restored to service.

Commander W. A. Sullivan, chief of the navy's salvage service and director of the Normandie operations, said that the method of salvage would be to divide the underwater portions of the ship by bulkheads and to pump out the water under controlled conditions until the vessel is righted.

The enormous task, unprecedented for size in U. S. maritime history, will be greatly complicated, however, by the fact that the Normandie is now resting at one point on a ledge of rock and all care must be exercised to prevent any crushing of the hull or any considerable sinking of the ship further into the water.

Maryland Bankers

"There must be when this war is over," Kayser declared "a long and continuing period of democratic trusteeship to maintain those principles for which we fight and to control with equal justice the greed of those who have and the greed of those who have not."

Dr. E. A. Kincaid, consulting economist of the federal reserve bank of Richmond, told the bankers-delegates at a business meeting this afternoon, that "many banks failed after World War I because of inflation of assets against which they made loans, and no bank wants a repetition of that experience."

Plot To Wreck Train Reported By Police Chief

Clear Case of Sabotage Seen in Vicinity of Fort Dix

PENNSAUKEN, N. J. (AP)—Police Chief Thomas Thorpe revealed today that a "deliberate attempt" had been made to wreck a Pennsylvania railroad passenger train on the only line serving Fort Dix, N. J. from the west near here on Tuesday.

Thorpe said it was a clear case of sabotage.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents promptly entered the inquiry, he added.

The chief said the train, carrying 124 passengers, struck several rail splice bars and two ties which had been placed on the tracks near a bridge which spans a small creek.

"Only a miracle" kept the train from plunging into the stream, Thorpe asserted.

The three-car local carriers commuters between Camden and Point Pleasant, N. J.

Thorpe related that seven splice bars, each weighing sixty-five pounds, had been found along the tracks. They had been fitted at set intervals on both sides of the bridge so as to catch traffic in either direction.

While the train was not derailed, the force of the impact ripped loose the iron steps to the engine and one coach.

Military authorities declined to comment on the case.

than one car in operation. This could be accomplished, it said, by forbidding any family to own more than five tires at any one time and would result in the immobilization of some 2,000,000 automobiles.

But even with such strict controls, the report said, it probably would prove necessary for the government to requisition several million automobiles during 1943, if essential automobile transportation were to continue.

"The necessity of taking this undesired step," it continued, "will be determined primarily by the developments in the synthetic rubber program. It can be averted only if, through some industrial miracle, the projected synthetic plant capacity can be made to produce far in excess of the combined rubber requirements of the United Nations for military purposes."

May Use Whisky Plants

In this connection, Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones told a Senate subcommittee today he had recommended that the nation's synthetic rubber program be increased from the 800,000 tons a year now planned to 1,000,000.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) suggested that whiskey plants be converted to make alcohol for munitions and synthetic rubber. Jones said WPB officials soon would announce a plan for using all idle whiskey stills and stills which formerly made industrial alcohol from molasses.

War-Time Motoring Curtailment Brings Bicycle Laws to the Front

BALTIMORE, May 21. (AP)—War-time motoring difficulties are bringing back some almost-forgotten laws.

Police throughout Maryland are telling the ever-increasing number of bicyclists there are definite rules about bicycling as well as motoring—and they must obey them.

The Automobile Club of Maryland, waging a clean-the-streets campaign designed to save thinning tires, brings to light a 1912 law forbidding the discarding of nails, wires, glass and such materials on the highways.

No Dropping Bottles

Nothing injurious to the feet of persons or animals or to the tires or wheels of vehicles may be thrown on to the streets, the law says. And, the automobile club continued, the statute provided also that anyone who dropped a bottle or a nail on the road accidentally must try to remove it immediately.

Baltimore city policemen have been told by their superiors that the law requires all bicycles operated on the streets be lighted at night, fore and aft.

Another law forbids bicyclists to coast with their feet off the pedals and their hands off the handlebars.

Bikes Keep to Right

Like automobiles, bicycles must stay on the right-hand side of the road and give the right-of-way at the proper places.

The automobile club said the 1912 law was designed to "protect the fragile tires of the first motor cars. With new tires unavailable, the club reasons modern tires will soon become as thin, and advocates enforcement of the law."

The club asked motorists and the public to cooperate in the campaign by watching for broken glass, nails and other broken objects and removing them or notifying the proper authorities.

Freighter Sunk Off New England

Small Ships Torpedoed Soon after Holding Target Practice

BOSTON, May 21. (AP)—The gun crew of a small United Nations freighter had just completed target practice when two torpedoes fired in quick succession by an unseen submarine sent her to the bottom off the New England coast, May 17, survivors related upon their arrival at an east coast port aboard a rescue vessel.

One of the freighter's crew of twenty-four, who was on duty in the engine room, perished and six others were so severely injured they required hospital treatment.

The freighter's master, whose name may not be mentioned because his family still resides in an occupied land, said that within five to seven minutes his lumber-laden vessel careened so far over on her blasted port side that the crew found it necessary to push the starboard lifeboat down the starboard side into the water. The port lifeboat had been converted into splinters by the blast.

In less than half an hour after the torpedoing, the captain said, the merchantman disappeared beneath the surface.

Dominican Ship Sunk, 24 Drown

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, DOMINICAN REPUBLIC, May 21. (AP)—The 922-ton dominican steamer Presidente Trujillo was torpedoed and sunk by a submarine this afternoon with the apparent loss of twenty-four lives when only one hour out of the French Martinique port of Fort-De-France, Dominican officials announced tonight.

The captain and fourteen other crewmen were landed at Martinique, it was said.

The Dominican republic, which is at war with the Axis powers, already had lost the steamship San Rafael, 1,161 tons, early this month due to submarine action in the Caribbean.

Dr. Stuart Hutchison Heads Presbyterians

MILWAUKEE, May 21. (AP)—The Rev. Stuart Nye Hutchison, D.D., of Pittsburgh, today was elected moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

He was chosen to the highest position of the church in America on the third ballot cast by commissioners to the 154th general assembly.

Other candidates were the Rev. Joseph McClellan Broadie, D.D., Birmingham, Ala., and the Rev. Asa J. Perry, D.D., Wichita, Kas.

Gasoline Saving Report Creates Furore in Court

"Cannonball Baker" Brings Even the Judge to His Feet

DETROIT, May 21. (AP)—E. G. Baker was testifying in a federal court case today involving alleged patent infringement when he strayed to his experimental work in Indianapolis.

"I've perfected a method by which you can get fifty miles to the gallon with heavy cars," he said casually. Everybody jumped up at his remark. The trial stopped.

"You mean that you've got a gadget that will give me fifty miles to the gallon of gas during this rationing?" the attorney for the plaintiff cross-examined.

"Do you mean," butted in the attorney for the defense, "that in Philadelphia I can make my three-gallon ration take me 150 miles?" Baker nodded agreement.

Federal Judge Arthur F. Lederle took up the questioning.

"Is this contrivance going to be available to the public?"

"It will be available to the public shortly," Baker responded.

The trial forgotten, attorneys by systematic questioning learned that Baker, known to generations of racing fans as "Cannonball Baker" recently had perfected a device for long-distance mileage after years of research.

Henderson Tells

"almost on the nose" the advance calculations of the Office of Price Administration. He said he did not know how the other cards were split, but that it was the A cards which were important.

Numerous returns of unlimited X cards and B-3 cards for exchange for cards allowing smaller rations provided, he said, another "source of confidence in the public."

A lot of problems still remain to be worked out in connection with price ceilings, the administrator said, but the retail trade has "gone along and posted and adjusted prices and the results today have been even better than I could have hoped for, considering that this was the most tremendous economic measure ever put into effect in this country."

He said that one thing that stood out was that the "small fellow in the hinterland" was taking it better than his "big city brother."

Japs Attempting

Observers who believed that Japan was in the first stages of an all-out attempt to dispose of China saw confirmation in reports of a heavy massing of Japanese forces at Yangtze river bases near Hankow, possibly for an effort to occupy the entire railway running from Hankow, through Changsha, to Canton.

This would entail a fourth battle of Changsha.

Kinshwa, provisional capital of Chekiang, and now Foochow, capital of Fukien, were the principal targets of the enemy's double fronts in eastern China.

Cheerful News About Crabs

A BIT of good news in these war-torn days is always refreshing. Wherefore we can all indulge in a smile of satisfaction over a news report coming from Annapolis about the state crab industry.

While the war has affected this industry along with other peacetime businesses, state conservation officials predict that the 1942 season will be the best since 1939, the last good crabbing year.

Crabbing slumped more than fifty per cent between 1939 and last year, when only 11,336,500 pounds of hard crabs were taken from Chesapeake bay and its tributaries as compared to the 27,000,000 pounds reported three years ago.

Optimistic reports have been received by the state conservation chiefs from deputy commanders who have been surveying the situation since the season opened May 1. Continuous "optimistic reports" were the basis for their forecast, they said.

Now this is really good news, indicating as it does that there is little chance that we shall have to face the bitter disappointment, which would amount of an actual hardship, of a shortage in the crab market. Marylanders can and will cheerfully give up car riding, sugar, coffee, tea and what not, but if it should come to rationing crabs then that would be something serious indeed. Give us our famous Chesapeake bay crabs and we are ready for anything.

Jap Retaliation Raid May Be Forthcoming

A "SAVE FACE" RAID of some kind by the Japanese navy is expected by observers in Washington. While the Coral sea victory was overwhelming, it was not decisive. Ship for ship the Americans outfought the Japanese, and this country can afford to lose more ships than Japan can because of keels already laid down and because of superior American replacement power.

Yet major units of the Japanese fleet were not involved, apparently. It was a task force against task force, and naval control of the Western Pacific is not yet decided.

The American navy will continue to try to smoke out the Japanese. It did a plucky job and a good job at the Gilberts. It was equally bold and efficient when it attacked the Japanese in the Coral sea. Yet Australia is still in danger. Moreover, land operations are contingent on sea supremacy, for he who controls the great bases in Asia also controls the ultimate fate of China and India.

The Japanese propaganda department is not as efficient as Germany's. In propaganda, the Japs are as reckless as they are in the over-extension of their supply lines and battle lines. Tokyo claimed two Allied battleships and a lot of other nonsense immediately after the Coral sea engagement. And unlike European dictators, who never have to make good on anything and seldom do, "face" is a major matter for Oriental leaders. Somebody in the Son of Heaven's outfit is going to have to produce, or else it is another job for the harakiri knife.

Secretary of War Stimson has warned that one retaliation might be a Japanese raid on the West Coast. The Japanese navy might choose to risk several ships for such a venture, and yet keep its battleships safe nearer home. As the British say to Hitler's gas threat, "Let it come!" The West Coast can take it if it has to. And Tokyo's bomb-baptized citizens know that the United States can also give it, and will—again and again.

Shipbuilders' Pay Boost a Compromise

MANY PERSONS have been unable to understand why the wages of shipyard workers should be boosted to $1.20 an hour, or an average of eight cents throughout the country.

The increase would add something between $125,000,000 and $150,000,000 a year to the cost of the shipbuilding program and, of course, practically all of the increase will be passed on to the taxpayers since the shipyards can pass their costs on to the government.

The inability to grasp the reason for the boost is made all the more difficult in view of the fact that announcement of it comes about the same time a ceiling is placed on retail prices and in view of President Roosevelt's recent radio broadcast in which he declared that not only could ceilings be expected for retailers, manufacturers, farmers, landlords, but that wage-earners also would have to forego higher pay for the duration. Thus it would appear that the shipyard workers' pay boost comes in violation of a pledge and as another instance of favoritism for those who have all along enjoyed it at the hands of the New Deal.

But this would not be altogether an accurate impression, according to the explanation made by the New York Herald Tribune. This is for the reason, it says, that "the shipyard workers had zone agreements with their employers which, if adhered to, would have meant at this time close to double the increase figured on on the basis of the entire pay roll, but benefiting only the workers in the Gulf and Pacific Coast areas and resulting in 'unjustifiable regional inequalities.'"

"The quotation," says the Herald Tribune, "is from the president's letter to the National Shipbuilding Conference, in which he asked that it 'work out a plan by which this conflict may be resolved, so that wage standards of the workers in the shipbuilding industry and in other industries, and living standards of all persons of moderate income, may be preserved against the inflationary rise in the cost of living.'"

"The settlement is, therefore, a compromise. It does to be sure, permit a boost of wages in contradiction of the president's blunt mandate over the air, but it establishes a uniform basic rate for all four zones, including those of the Atlantic Coast and the Great Lakes, and represents a definite concession by labor, which has agreed not only to waive the provisions of its collective contracts but to take its additional pay in war bonds."

The Herald Tribune notes that, incidentally, these contracts were entered into on the insistence of the old O. P. M., and under the personal direction of Sidney Hillman, which is to imply that they were made with the president's consent and blessing.

The concession suggests, according to the New York paper, a real desire to play ball, in which light, as it says, we can all look upon it hopefully with the expectation that the adjustment will finally serve as a ceiling in this industry for the duration.

Radio Faces a Finish Fight

THE STRUGGLE that the radio industry is making to free itself from federal regulation of its programs is the result of a mistake that was made early in the career of the radio.

Federal regulation of radio was necessary. Some authority had to allocate wave lengths and the power of stations, or there would have been confusion, if not chaos. Since the problem was national and even world-wide, the federal government had to take jurisdiction.

Thus a situation arose which was similar to the control of the press that was exercised through the licensing of printers. Government had control of the medium of expression in both instances.

The press was able to free itself after centuries of struggle because government control was arbitrary and capricious and was not based on necessity. In the case of radio, however, control of the agency is necessary in its very nature.

The mistake was made when radio management permitted government to extend its control of the agency to include the regulation of programs. All stations are licensed by the government, hence all have to face, at stated times, the possibility that the license may be canceled. It is through this licensing system that the Federal Communications Commission is reaching out for more authority over the ownership and use of broadcasting stations.

Control in the interest of the general welfare and military security can be exercised through the courts and the war censorship. That should be enough. But the commission has established a precedent of control, and the radio industry cooperated by failing to resist.

It now faces the possibility of having to make a finish fight to defend its freedom.

Hitler, after all his experience in issuing gas orally to the German people, might be expected to resort to poison gas in warfare.

The Symptomaniac

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I've just read a medical article—and I wish I hadn't.

Too many "symptoms" in it. And as I read along, I kept checking up, checking up, checking up, comparing me with those symptoms. . . . Once upon a time I had that pain in my side, that dizziness, that sleeplessness, that headache, that cough.

I fitted right into that medical article. . . . I was the patient, I was the subject, I was the guy with all those aches and pains. It was a wonder I was walking around the town, when I should have been in bed, visited a doctor, had an examination. Perhaps he'd tell me the truth. Perhaps he wouldn't, but whatever he did, I wouldn't be satisfied. If the truth was alarming, I'd worry. If he soothed me, I'd suspect he was lying. . . . Either way, what good would it do me?

So I found another article by another doctor on the psychology of reading medical articles. . . . And HE explained that the healthiest man in the world can read one of them and feel that if he doesn't do something about himself, he'll probably fall to pieces on a street corner some day. . . . The body is not a simple structure. It's very complicated and constantly adjusting itself to growth, to our changing ways of living. Objecting to some element in our conduct, warning us to go slow. . . . All of us have "symptoms" all the time, and few of them are of any real importance, but most of us are symptomaniacs!

And we needn't be "viewing with alarm" everything that happens to us. We're not immortal, but we're not as flimsy as we sometimes fear. . . . Our grandfather lived to be 85 years. A great-grandfather fell out of a tree in his seventies. Grandmother had aches and pains all her life, but she was more than 75 when she died. . . . Only a scared-cat gets excited about a few words in a medical article—and how about taking a long trip into the mountains and forgetting all about the ills created in my imagination by that article?

Russian Towns In the War News Mostly Hamlets

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

About ninety per cent of the reports we get from the world's various war areas can't possibly mean much to the average reader.

For one thing, they conflict, depending on which side emits 'em.

We may have a broad general idea of what's going on, on a large scale, but accounts are too mixed up to make Charles P. Stewart sense in detail.

Illustratively, it's obvious that the Nazis must be having serious trouble on their Russian front, or they wouldn't have been tied up there so long. The results of specific engagements are a mere matter of guesswork, though, to folk as far away as we are.

We never even heard of the towns around which a lot of the fighting's raging. Their names don't figure in any gazetteer. No modern map indicates 'em.

Suppose we were pulling off a war in this country and we were to broadcast information concerning the outcome of a fierce encounter in the outskirts of some little Podunk, consisting of one general store, half a block of houses in each direction from the main crossroads, a lone church and 214 population. How much significance would that victory or defeat have to listeners in remote parts of Europe or Asia or Madagascar—people without the slightest notion of the burg's geography, unable even correctly to pronounce its name, "Podunk"?

Many Are Hamlets

That's the kind of wee hamlets we see and hear mentioned in connection with the scrapping in the Caucasus, Burma and similar far-off areas.

Many years ago in the course of one of South America's wars, an internationally decisive rookus occurred in the vicinity of a teeny-weeny settlement, on the edge of which I lived a couple of generations later. Consequently I learned of the affair, five or six decades belatedly. It was known as the Battle of Empalme Villa Constitution—meaning Constitution City Junction. It was important, too, locally. But I'll bet that, in its day, we Yankees understood its consequence fully as little as we understand the Nazi-Russian and Japanese-Chinese particulars in our 1940's.

Up to Date

But getting up to date—It happens that I'm familiar with approximately half a dozen words in Chinese.

One of 'em is "shan".

O. K. You've read about Jap-Chinese activities in the "shan states."

Seeking enlightenment, I've asked a number of our publicity dispensers, "What, please, do you mean by the shan states?"

To this query, the publicityites have answered, pityingly, because of my ignorance, "We mean the states, or provinces, that the Shan mountains criss-cross."

Well, shan is Chinese for mountains.

To refer to the Shan mountains is equivalent to saying, the "mountainous mountains."

It's like failing to draw a distinction between the Alleghenies and the Rockies.

Wide Room for Error

In eastern China is the Khingnan Shan. Twelve or fifteen hundred miles to the westward is the Kunlun Shan. There's quite a bit of room for inaccuracies of reckonings if both these shans are regarded as one and the same range.

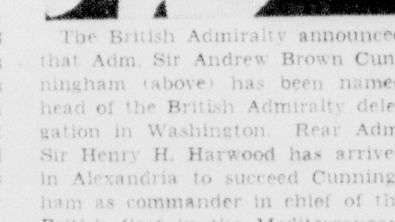

The Chinese recognize the difference.

They have two provinces—Shantung and Shansi.

"Tung" means east, "Shan"—east of the mountains, "Si" means west—west of the mountains. This refers to the Khingnan Shan. The Kunlun are on the western border; therefore don't divide in two.

Superior Ability Shown by Doolittlers Is Seen As Marking Turn of the War

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The worm is turning in this war. Acknowledged superior skill, energy and ingenuity of the United States are beginning to appear in aggressive action.

You can see it in the battle of the Coral sea, in the arrival unscathed of a great mass of convoys of troops in Ireland, but particularly in the exploit of Gen. Doolittle and the seventy-nine flyers he took to Japan.

His venture will be imperishably famous, not because of the exceptional military damage done (we do not yet know how much it was), but because of the incredible circumstance that they carried a bombing attack halfway around the world and escaped without a single plane shot down. The feat was distinctive for three reasons:

One—The attack was made at mid-day in clear weather. The Nazis, British and other generally have been staging their bombing raids at night, to get the protecting cover of darkness. Even the Jap raid on Pearl Harbor was a sneak-up attack at dawn.

His continuous studies of public opinion, Gallup says, have demonstrated time and again that the farm bloc frequently does not speak for the farmers, nor labor leaders for the common people are as intelligent or public-spirited as they should be—and are. In supporting his claims, Dr. Gallup cites such instances as the polling of all full-time employed Americans, two-thirds of whom say that they would be willing to have wages each pay-day to buy war bonds or stamps.

Similarly, polls found 60 per cent of farmers willing to grant the government complete dictation over farm crops and prices.

In his article Gallup says that if the public continues to be ahead of its leaders to the same degree as in the past we may expect such development as stiffer regulation for organized labor, more drastic wartime controls demanded by the public itself, longer working hours, and some system of compulsory savings. "I do not for a moment maintain," he writes, "that legislators should become rubber stamps, but I do urge that in shaping national policy Congress listen less to the spokesmen of pressure groups and special interests and more to the plain people."

Two—The eighty Doolittlers did precision bombing. Each man had a target designated. The customary way of this war so far has been what they call pattern bombing. The bombardiers come in upon targets in formation and drop their eggs together, hoping a few will strike home in the right spots. . . . The Doolittlers picked the right spot, went to them, saw them and split them from 1,500 feet.

Three—Everyone else has been looking for altitude to get away from anti-aircraft fire. They devised even stratosphere bombers with telescopic bombights. Gen. Doolittle found the answer they have been looking for, but in the opposite direction. He rendered the anti-aircraft guns of Japan useless by coming in over Japan at an altitude of about 100 feet or less and staying there until the boys found their objectives. Of course that is too low for actual bombing. They are apt to get caught in the explosion you cause. At the objectives, the Doolittlers went up to 1,500 feet where they could drop an egg through the eye of a needle.

It is practically impossible for any A-A gun to catch a fast plane at 1,500 feet, wholly impossible at 100 feet. The range finder on the three-inch A-A gun in common use assumes to catch the plane at the point where it should be by the time the shell gets there. This gun is therefore, effective only about 4,000 feet where the plane moves slowly across its vision.

New Devices Used

Everybody has another A-A gun, the 37 MM., for use between 2,000 and 4,000 feet. That is why the Doolittlers went no higher than 1,500. At that altitude their planes, carrying special new devices which are the product of American inventive genius, traveled so fast nothing could move fast enough to catch them except a machine gun.

But at their invasion altitude of 100 feet or less they crossed the horizon of any given machine gun so fast the gunner could hardly have known they were coming before they were gone.

This explains why no plane was lost, why the Japs cashed their generals in charge of their defense and started figuring up some new ideas of protection, why they could think of nothing to do afterward except how to do afterword and schools were bombed.

First Combination

Can you imagine one of these Doolittlers carrying a bomb all the way to Japan to waste it on a non-military objective at mid-day from 1,500 feet? Why, he could shave off the emperor's mustache under those conditions.

Now none of these three phases is entirely new to the warring minds of men, but no one ever before put them together in the way Gen. Doolittle did. Herein lies all the elements of the story of how and why we will win the war.

We have always had the best flyers and the best planes. It has taken us a while to adapt them to surprise conditions which were presented to us. We are just beginning to show our stuff.

The secret weapon of the United States is the same as always. We have Doolittlers in our armed services and our factories.

Prediction Confirmed

The questioned column of May 8 suggesting the Japs would probably next turn back on China to knock her out of the war with a pincer drive down the Yangtze and up through Yunnan, has not been fully confirmed in dispatches (May 20) from Chungking. The prospect that China would be a bad way is now being suggested by the Chinese authorities.

Invasion of Australia now seems more remote than ever. Attack on India seems out of the Jap program entirely (Both these remote possibilities then were being widely predicted, you will remember.)

Of two real prospects suggested in that May 8 column, one is still alive. A Jap attack on Russia may be started jointly with the operations in China at any time.

But the Jap move to seize islands east of Australia (New Hebrides, New Caledonia, New Zealand) to cut out line of supplies, has certainly been delayed by the battle of the Coral sea. However, no one knows for how long.

Difficult To Measure

The Russia fighting is involved on both sides in a complicated system of counter-attacks which are difficult to measure from day to day. The Germans started at Kerch; the Russians moved at Kharkov to relieve Kerch; the German counter-attack south of Kharkov to relieve Kharkov. No one will be able to guess well how the fighting is going until it develops further.

Schools Justify Faith of People, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Sugar and gasoline rationing absorbed the attention of the individual mostly, as the plan affected his or her own needs, and perhaps the people generally did not realize what an enormous job was performed on short notice by the school teachers of America.

They weren't paid overtime for it and they weren't really paid anything for their long and arduous tasks at the schools in meeting the millions of citizens who applied for ration cards. It was a contribution to patriotism which enabled the United States to handle the card issuance part of the problem with the utmost efficiency.

The school teachers worked long hours everywhere. Nearly 1,000,000 teachers in approximately 247,000 public, private and parochial schools took part in the registration of sugar cards. They were assisted to some extent by volunteers from civilian defense agencies but in most instances did the work without outside help.

The preliminary unofficial report shows that during the four days of registration for sugar cards, the needs of 122,604,000 persons were recorded or about ninety-one per cent of the population. Of this number 116,204,000 persons were given ration books. About 6,400,000 persons did not get ration books because they already had more sugar on hand than was allotted by the books.

Schools Dismissed

Originally the schedules called for registration between 4 p. m. and 9 p. m. during the four days but in most cities it was found necessary to dismiss the schools for at least one day so that the teachers worked at the registration task all day. In some cities registration continued through a fifth day.

In the rural districts, the schools, which usually close on May 1, remained open for the gasoline and sugar registrations. In some areas, the teachers went to the homes of the citizens to distribute the ration books. This helped to save tires and gasoline.

The gasoline rationing did not involve as many persons as did the sugar rationing but it was a far more complex job for the teachers. Approximately 100,000 teachers are estimated to have registered about 8,000,000 motorists in the seventeen eastern and southern states where gasoline rationing was imposed.

Honor System Used

It was not the fault of the teachers that more of the larger unit cards were distributed than the office of price administration expected to issue. The teachers were instructed to use the honor system and take the word of the applicant as to his or her mileage needs.

Most schools not only gave their teachers' time in the actual registration periods but arranged for preliminary instruction so that the work would proceed smoothly when the public applied for cards.

Many schools are equipped to train citizens for defense work and it is estimated that since Pearl Harbor about 1,224,000 workers for skilled jobs have been trained in the vocational schools. In addition, the schools have courses designed to train girls and women in business, and there are courses in home nursing, nutrition and first aid, all of which is helping in the war effort.

Apart from the training programs, the schools are carrying out other programs related to the war. Thus, the teachers have been used in the air raid service because certain strategically located school buildings can provide centers for the assembling of information and for draft board meetings and registration procedures.

Other Service

Then there are salvage and conservation programs which center in the schools. Organizations like the Red Cross and Civilian Defense agencies are making good use of the schools as meeting places. Schools may be used in some areas as first aid hospital centers, in the event of air raids or epidemics.

The work done by the schools in connection with Selective Service registration and the enrollment of aliens is another example of service to the communities. On the whole, the American schools and school teachers are today justifying the faith of the American people who have for decades believed in building up the school system. For today the federal government in a national emergency has found that it can, overnight, use the schools and the teachers for essential tasks requiring an army of intelligent personnel to meet the public. The teachers collectively deserve the thanks of the nation for what they have done.

Dr. Myers Gives List of Don'ts On Punishment

Children Shouldn't Be Penalized To Get Emotional Relief

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.
Let me suggest some don'ts concerning punishment.

1. Don't punish your child just to get emotional relief, to make yourself feel better. Most punishment of children is for no other reason.
2. Don't punish while you are not complete master of your emotions.
3. Don't punish until you and the other parent have planned together long beforehand in what types of situations you would punish and exactly how. Punishment can hardly be effective unless both parents act as one.

Don't Be a Tattler

4. Let neither parent hand over to the other parent the child for punishment, nor tattle on the child. She is a cowardly, cruel and destructive mother who will ask the father to punish the child in the evening for his naughty deeds during the day.

5. Don't punish on the installment plan nor draw out punishment over long periods. Do it and be done with it; never bring up the matter again.

6. Don't trust so much to severity of punishment as to its certainty and immediacy in connection with the wrong act. Let it always be instant and without exception or not at all, especially with the younger child.

7. Don't punish, therefore, for nail-biting, thumb-sucking, and the like, since the punishment can not always be immediate or without exception.

8. As a rule do not punish in connection with eating habits, since the pain tends to spread to the wrong things and defeat cooperation.

Not First Offense

9. As a rule, do not punish on the first offense. Make clear to the child the seriousness of the offense and exactly what the penalty will be for its repetition. Then keep your word.

MARINES' 'CUTEST CHUTIST'

Joan Leslie, seventeen-year-old movie starlet, selected as the U. S. Marine Corps' "Cutest Chutist," is shown taking a jump from a control tower at San Diego, Cal. Miss Leslie, wearing a regulation jumping uniform looks a little squeamish as she floats through the air under an open parachute to a landing.

10. Don't punish the child by denying him an expected pleasure, for example, just because he happened to do some unrelated wrong in the meanwhile.

11. Employ punishment to prevent, not to promote. Punish the child to keep him from doing or repeating a few undesirable acts, not to do what you want him to do, except in a few instances, perhaps, with the child over five or six. Make it a rule to request the child to do what you want him to do and set the stage so he will accede. Then celebrate his cooperation.

Matter of Obedience

12. Suppose you are sure you should command your eight-year-old child to bring you potatoes from the basement and after he has lingered or refused to go, you say to him: "Either go for those potatoes in the next five minutes or sit in that chair doing nothing for exactly an hour." What if he must serve the sentence? Should he also go for the potatoes? Certainly not. He fulfilled the requirements you named. Anyway, his going for the potatoes this time is of relatively small importance. It's his readiness to obey next time he is commanded that is the test. Don't therefore, punish a child till he obeys, but if he fails to obey.

Being Decisive

13. Neither should you repeat a command or say it with increasing loudness. Utter it in moderate tone very clearly once, after you are sure you have the child's attention. Thereafter be decisive. Act. Be too proud to argue.

14. Don't punish the child over two or three years of age in the presence of others.
15. Don't tug at the heart strings if you are deeply hurt at the tot of the child to punish him, pretend of three or four, or refusing to talk to the teen-age youth.

16. Don't tell other adults or children, in your child's presence, of his disobedience or experiences of punishment.

17. Don't trust in punishment for preventing and correcting lying and stealing in the child. Trust rather in more love and understanding.

Mrs. Thomas McClean Is Chosen Club President

Elected by Members of the Woman's Civic Club at Meeting Here

Mrs. Thomas McClean was elected president of the Woman's Civic Club at the meeting yesterday afternoon in the parish house of Emmanuel Episcopal church.

Other officers are Mrs. Charles L. Kopp, first vice-president; Mrs. Max N. Freese, second vice-president; Mrs. T. L. Richards, recording secretary; Mrs. Ralph R. Webster, financial secretary; Mrs. Miles G. Thompson, treasurer; Mrs. Elizabeth L. Lowndes and Mrs. A. N. Golladay, six year directors; Mrs. William Claus and Mrs. Franklin H. Ankeney, four year directors; Mrs. J. W. Alvret Thomas and Mrs. Nellie Wilson Potter, two year directors.

Mrs. H. T. Robinson presented the past president pin to Mrs. J. W. Holmes, retiring president.

Mrs. Holmes presided and received the reports of the officers and chairman.

Treasurer's Report Given

The treasurer's report given by Mrs. Ankeney announced the purchase of a $300 defense bond; and the following contributions: Church Society, $10; Girl Scout Camp, $10; prizes for the Garden Club contest, $20; Police Boys' club, $10; the Memorial hospital card party, $10; Sun Shine Treat at the county home and asylum, $10; Girl Scouts, $50; Allegany County League for Crippled Children, $25; State Foundation fund, $5; Community Chest, $50; a sustaining membership for the Y.M.C.A., $25; and the Western Maryland Communities for beautifying the highways, $7.50.

Expenses for out-of-town speakers included Mrs. John Phillips, $30; Mrs. Bertram Harvey, Wedgewood program, $25; Mrs. Lily Belle Deane, antique program, $25; and for a picture of the Cumberland Free Public Library which the club presented to Miss Mary G. Walsh for her untiring service to the community.

Mrs. George G. Young in giving a resume of the history of the Woman's Civic Club since the merger of the Woman's club and the Civic Club ten years ago, stressed the simplicity of the celebration under the present world conditions.

The old Civic club which had been in existence since 1910, was active in movements connected with civic improvements and cultural advancement. The Woman's club organized Dec. 8, 1925 was especially interested in home economics, decoration and active participation in welfare work. Overlapping of effort and activities became apparent and the clubs were merged.

New Members Honored

Under the presidency of Mrs. Ankeney the scholarship for the blind and student and hot lunches for handicapped children, sponsored by the Woman's club and the baby welfare work by the Civic club were continued. Under the presidency of Mrs. Golladay the first flower show was carried out as well as the art exhibit loan. The club institute was begun under the presidency of Mrs. Lowndes. Appreciation was also expressed for the efficiency of Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Holmes for their administrations.

Mrs. Kopp presided at the punch bowl and was assisted in serving by Mrs. Walter L. Pierce, Mrs. Cyril M. Croft, Mrs. Nellie Wilson Potter, Mrs. G. Frank Malin, Mrs. Alice C. Pfeiffer, Mrs. N. P. Jordano, and Mrs. Roy W. Eves. The tea was held in honor of eighteen new members received this year. Spring flowers were used in the table decorations.

St. Mary's Groups To Attend Mass

The St. Mary's Alumnae Association and the members of the graduating class will attend the 8:30 o'clock Mass Sunday and receive Communion. The graduates will be honor guests of the association at the breakfast to be served in the church auditorium following the Mass.

Mrs. Louise Coulahan will be the guest speaker. Miss Adelaide Hession, president of the association will introduce the honor guests who are Mary Catherine O'Donnell, Helen Wempe, Alma Nevy, Eileen Carroll, Helen Andrews, Edith Caporali, Angela Schultz, Mary Angela Smith, Rose Mary Klier and Margaret Jean Spiker.

Events in Brief

The Choral Group of the Girl Scouts will meet at 4 o'clock today at the little house, 72 Greene street, with Miss Mary Elizabeth Critchfield. Any girl in the city is welcome to join the group.

Patriotic Program Will Be Given At Prom Tonight

A surprise patriotic program will be presented by Jack Platt at the Allegheny high school senior prom tonight. It will be followed by a "grand march" to Navy songs and other patriotic selections, with Gretchen Williams, secretary, and Ira Stroup, president, leading.

The committee of arrangements has inaugurated a drive to have the girls wear lockets of defense stamps instead of corsages. This was praised by Mr. Platt over the public address system yesterday. He urged everyone to donate any proceeds from social activities to the Red Cross or to buy defense stamps to place ammunition in the hands of the men in service, who are fighting while those at home are dancing.

The patriotic motif will also be carried out in the elaborate decorations. Approximately 110 couples are expected to attend.

From Out of Nowhere Comes Charming Young Lady To Cut Swath in Washington Society

By MALVINA STEPHENSON
Central Press Writer

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 21—Social climbers will whisper that the competition here is getting mighty steep.

With celebrities a dime a dozen in this booming world capital, social entree hinges "strictly" on official rank, a Who's Who name, or an established family fortune.

Invitations are generally more limited since big scale official entertainment has been banned for the duration. Only those with an inside social track draw the cards to the famous embassy parties and the exclusive private affairs.

The closest a government girl ever gets is a wide-eyed glimpse at the Washington society sections. And rare it is that any career girl stars on the social front so closed by competition.

Here's one notable exception to the rule, although the answer may lie in the fact that she herself, is a very unusual girl!

Out of Nowhere

Less than three years ago, pretty Meredith Howard came to Washington, virtually unknown here by big-time capital standards. (However, she had made a social splash on Chicago's Gold Coast, and previously paraded before the Broadway footlights.)

Today, this talented young woman lands the most coveted capital invitations and sits in the inner social circle. She counts among her close friends diplomatic wives, the "cave-dweller" dowagers (perennial Washington residents) and top-ranking official hostesses.

She not only holds her own in the social swim, but watch her vie with debutantes and gay young widows in the game to "get your man."

According to the capital blue-book, one of the most eligible bachelors in the official circle is Sam Rayburn, speaker of the house of representatives. Incidentally, the speaker is no easy mark for ambitious femmes, and he generally avoids big entertainments. Once he did accept an invitation for one of the famous dinners at Friendship House, but Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean failed to seat him according to protocol, and he never went back.

Diplomats, Too

In the diplomatic field, Miss Howard also is besieged with admirers. John Foster, that long, tall Britisher with the black curly hair and the aristocratic manner, chose Miss Howard to be his partner for the president's birthday celebration. As for the Latins, Miss Howard has so many friends that she is concentrating on Spanish romantic phrases.

By this time you may be curious to know how this former Ziegfeld Follies girl has crashed the Washington scene, entrenching herself so surely in capital social life.

Well, one first look is convincing. Miss Howard is a tall, curvaceous blonde who has gorgeous clothes and knows how to wear them. She's literally one of those girls with plenty of beauty and brains, and incidentally, she also knows how to use them.

Lady Halifax First

Miss Howard is a career girl, in that she has had various kinds of radio and advertising promotion jobs. The radio programs first helped to put her in the spotlight, and the subsequent social connections helped to expand her audience. She has an amazing flair for linking the two fields.

For instance, Lady Halifax, wife of the British ambassador, consented to head the list of distinguished guests at the kick-off for Miss Howard's Embassy Day series, a weekly luncheon program at the fashionable hotel where she lives. Miss Howard interviewed Lady Halifax, and the socialites of the capital modeled the newest in spring clothes from a downtown department store.

That definitely "launched" the project. For subsequent luncheons, Miss Howard had ambassadors and their wives to honor some special Allied nation on each Saturday luncheon program. Although the project has a commercial tinge, with a plug for the store and the hotel, Miss Howard is able to assemble at her head table, along with the diplomatic contingent, such guests as United States senators and their wives, supreme court justices and cabinet couples. On one occasion when she had so many honor guests, Miss Howard had to withdraw and turned the hostess duties over to Mrs. Jesse Jones, wife of the secretary of commerce.

"Open House"

Twenty-five per cent of the proceeds go to the Red Cross, and the increasing turn-over already has resulted in a presentation of War Bonds worth $1,500.

In her entire budget of living, Miss Howard shows definite executive ability. She has an attractive apartment, staffed with a maid, a secretary and a part-time press agent. Her quarters are a continuous "open house," and often a cocktail party may be going full away while she dashes in, gets dressed for another engagement and bids a hasty farewell.

She gets more done than the average two or three people, although there might be some explanation in the fact that she is "twins." Her handsome twin sister, Virginia (Mrs. Lou Werphimer of Hollywood), was once runner-up for "Miss America," and was chosen by Bernard MacFadden as "Miss America Venus." Little sister, Mary, who appeared with them in the last

Mary and Meredith are still MacFadden's physical culture models. Although Meredith has scored something of a record for giving and attending cocktail parties, she

Cleveland's 300,000 School Children Ready If Axis Planes Raid Ohio City

By SANFORD MARKEY
Central Press Correspondent

CLEVELAND, May 21. — Should bombers penetrate to the high industrial shores of eastern Lake Erie, 300,000 pupils of Greater Cleveland's public, parochial and private schools will instantaneously go into operation one of the most complete air-raid evacuation plans developed in the United States.

Hub of the precision-planned program is radio station WBOE of the Cleveland board of education, the educational system in the nation to utilize radio as a means of warnings. Today, each of the 350 schools is in constant radio communication with WBOE, operating on a federal authorized frequency modulation wave length.

During school hours, pupil radio monitors are stationed at their respective loud speakers ready to catch any of three flash warnings from WBOE. These warnings are: Signals

1. Army Yellow, indicating that enemy planes are from 25 to 30 minutes' flying distance from Cleveland.
2. Army Blue, planes are from 8 to 10 minutes' distance.
3. Army Red, planes are within 5 minutes' distance.

As a preliminary warning, signals will be introduced by three blasts of a police whistle made on a recording disc. The record will play until WBOE is ordered off the air by Army authorities.

After a broadcast warning has been received, school bells will give a series of short, staccato taps to inform the student bodies. Should the bell signal fail, pupil messengers will be dispatched to all rooms. The fire bell, normally used as an alarm signal, will be sounded only when bombs have fallen upon a school building and fire has resulted.

Through practice drills, school authorities have learned that an "Army Yellow" signal, with its 25 minutes' advance notice, is enough time to permit pupils to reach their homes.

German raids on England's schools have shown the immense value of dispersing pupils and eliminating concentration of students in any one spot. Consequently, a detailed set of instructions has been prescribed for students and teachers to speed student evacuation.

Each elementary school teacher will serve as an "escort" for a small group of pupils living off of main streets within the school district. Teachers will be assisted by fifth and sixth grade pupils, the two top elementary grades, who live within that same area. As the groups pass side streets, pupils will disperse to their respective homes.

Pupils Guarded

Air raid officials pointed out that teachers, through this "escorting" program, are able to watch their pupils almost to their doorsteps. Junior and senior high school pupils will be sent home by direct dismissal. Teachers, however, will be stationed at key intersections to prevent loitering or street car traffic tie-ups caused by students crowding at certain bus or car stops.

Should either a "Blue" or a "Red" signal be flashed first, pupils will take shelter in air-raid quarters within the building. These shelters were developed on the advice of architectural engineers and England's bombing experience.

All pupils will be moved off top floors, away from skylights or windows and they will put as many walls as possible between them and the outside. Through extensive drills, each pupil knows exactly where he is to go and which teacher will be in charge of his group. In high schools with enrollments of 4,000 pupils, one-way traffic has been mapped through the corridors to prevent congestion in hallways as students hurry to assigned places. After arriving, teachers will begin group singing or other planned forms of group activity.

Students' Duties

A number of pupils have been given special assignments. For example, all windows and doors must be opened to permit the force of a blast to go through the building. Also window shades must be pulled down to prevent glass from flying inside the room. Pupils wishing to lie down have been warned to do so on their stomachs thus preventing broken backs or bumped heads which may result from the force of a blast.

A pupil desiring to sit next to an inside wall also has been instructed to lean only his shoulders perpendicularly against the wall. A direct hit or near miss, consequently, will throw him to the floor, but will not break his back.

When a direct hit is scored and students are forced to leave the building, they will be sent to designated homes, garages, churches or other assigned quarters in the immediate neighborhood.

Custodians Assigned

Custodians, too, have specific duties. They are responsible for their buildings and have mapped detailed plans to cope with bombs which may break gas lines, water mains, disrupt communications or endanger heating and ventilating systems.

In the junior and senior high schools, custodians are able to utilize a number of older pupils, although school officials maintain that custodial staffs are large enough to manage their own affairs.

Leslie R. Silvernale, supervisor of safety education of the Cleveland board of education, explained how plans have worked in practice.

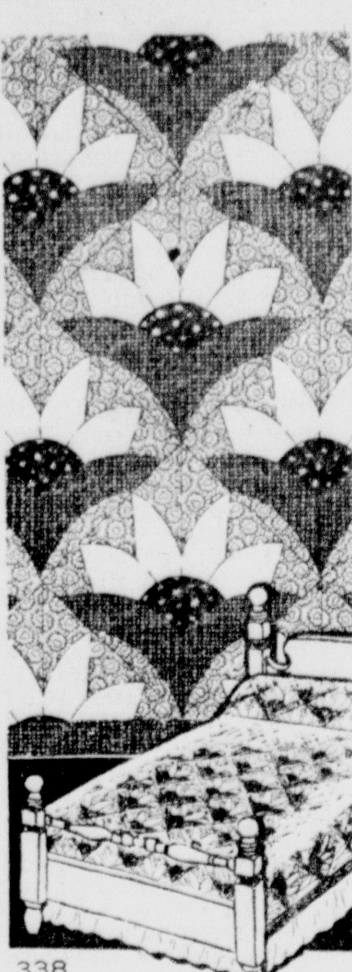

"Drills are held frequently enough to keep the plan working smoothly and efficiently," Silvernale said, adding, "pupils realize the need for both co-operation and discipline. During movements to air-raid quarters, there is not a sound heard except the steady movement of feet. Talking is banned."

"We feel we are ready should the enemy strike at home, but we hope we will never have to undergo an air raid."

Minor Lip Diseases, if Neglected, May End in Cancer, Doctor Says

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
We all see our lips every day—at least I presume we all do. I have heard that thousands of people in the United States don't use a toothbrush daily, but I have yet to hear of a single inhabitant of the North American continent who doesn't look into a mirror pretty regularly. In spite of this, a great many diseased conditions of the lips—ulcers and fissures—are allowed to drag on and no attention is paid to them. Sometimes they result in quite serious conditions.

Fever Blisters

The commonest change that occurs in the lips is the fever blister. So far as I know, the world is divided into two classes of people—the ones who want to know how to cure a fever blister and the ones who have a perfectly certain cure. The only suspicious thing about the perfectly certain cure is that no two of them are alike, so I have always hesitated to recommend anything to my readers.

Since fever blisters pass away in nearly every instance, the medical profession doesn't pay much attention to them. The only danger is that a more serious condition will be shrugged off by saying, "Oh, it's only a fever blister."

I say the fever blister almost always passes away. Very infrequently there is left a chronic ulcer or a little hard horn of skin at the side of the fever blister. These may drag on for years and should not be allowed to do so because they are potential cancers.

In fact, any change in the skin of the lips which is at all chronic is potentially cancerous. There is a condition known as keratosis that occurs in people whose occupations expose them to the wind and sun. There is a thickening of the skin of the lip, which in itself does no harm, and may last for years before finally it turns into a cancer. There is nothing to be done for the keratosis, but when it begins to break down and form a weeping ulcer or sore or a fissure that doesn't heal, it should be removed.

Leukoplakia

Another condition of the lips is known as leukoplakia. This occurs mostly after middle age, and shows up as a white, silvery patch which looks as if it could be rubbed off, but is extremely deceptive in this respect. Like the keratosis, it may go on for years doing no harm, and then begin to turn into cancer.

Of course, the lip is one of the most frequent sites of superficial cancer. Besides the cancers that are secondary to the precancerous conditions we have described above, such as indolent ulcer, horn keratosis and leukoplakia, a cancer may appear on the lip spontaneously. There are two kinds: one in the form of a wart and one in the form of an ulcer. They are more frequent in middle-aged persons and hardly ever occur before the age of sixty.

Lip Cancer Neglected

It is an astonishing thing, in view of the campaign against cancer which stresses the fact that any lump or ulceration of the skin should be examined by a physician and also stresses the fact that internal examination should be made regularly after the age of forty, that cancer of the lip should be so frequently neglected and should show one of the highest death rates of any form of cancer.

There, as I said at the beginning, we have a part of the body that we look at every day and should know what changes are occurring, and still so many people neglect and put off these things until it is too late. The lesson is that the lips are particularly subject to serious degenerative changes and anything in the form of a lump or an ulceration or a break in the skin should have the benefit of medical advice.

Questions and Answers

S.M.B.: — Is it possible to dissolve a large gall stone?

Answer: It is not possible to dissolve either a large or a small gall stone.

K.S.: — What are shingles? Are they dangerous? Are they contagious? What is the treatment? Can you completely get rid of them? What are they caused from?

Answer: Shingles are due to an infection of the ganglia of the nerves and cause an eruption on the skin in the area which the nerve involved supplies. They are very painful. They occur mostly in elderly people. They are not dangerous or contagious. The best treatment is by x-ray over the ganglion involved. One attack protects from recurrence for life.

As early as the days of King David, the Mount of Olives appears to have had on it a sanctuary, possibly originally instituted by the Canaanites, and afterward appropriated by the Israelites.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are taking you over, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acid and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. I request or sorry passages with swelling and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisons from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

A sincere, "down-to-earth" message to our friends and customers in Cumberland and the Tri-State area

Today we are all bending every effort for wartime production so that victory may be achieved at the earliest possible date. The E. V. Coyle Furniture Company is 100% behind all such effort and is extending every feasible service to customers in the face of certain limitations prescribed by the government—not only compulsory—but completely voluntary on our part. Price freezing went into effect with the opening of

About Merchandise:

Here is a preview of the furniture situation as it applies to the home-furnishing items that will be scarce and those that will not be scarce... There are two reasons why the most desirable living room furniture will become less available. The metals and springs that go into the building of upholstered furniture are not now available for furniture manufacture. Woods used in upholstering fabric can no longer be used for that purpose... In bedroom furniture there is less limitation, however, metal hardware, drawer pulls, etc., will be scarce with the prospect that wood handles will be adopted... Mattresses and springs, particularly those mattresses with innerspring units are already curtailed in production... Feather pillows, especially those with geese or duck feather or down filling are completely frozen by government order at the source of manufacture. We still have an ample stock to choose from, and this also applies to blankets, comforts and bed spreads as well... Conditions are not favorable for a continued supply of floorcoverings because all wools have been eliminated in carpet and rug weaving. Here, too, we offer you a large stock, including many rolls of broadloom and standard carpet widths, room size and scatter rugs of all sizes. Linoleums are still being manufactured, both inlaid and felt base styles. We do not anticipate any shortage in linoleums in the near future... Like the bedroom furniture, dining room furniture is available as heretofore with possible exceptions of metal hardware... In kitchen cabinets and breakfast sets, there will be no limitation so long as the articles are made entirely of wood, however metal pieces, porcelain tops and those using chrome as a feature of construction are rapidly nearing an end, even in our comprehensive assortment... Gas and combination ranges are available on priority orders for those who do not have a stove and need one, and for those who have a stove that is beyond repair. Further detail as to how you can secure a new stove if you fall in either of these classifications can be furnished by our salespeople.

Summing up the situation as a whole—we ask you to be patient. We ask you to go along with us in this effort to win the war, though a few inconveniences may be experienced by you. On our part we promise to bend every effort and devote all our energy toward giving you the highest quality service possible under the circumstances. We are all out to win this war—and certainly we are willing to go "all-out" on the home front, in view of the sacrifices made by American boys on the actual battle front. Buy what you want and need—but don't get panicky under any circumstances—there's no occasion for any such attitude on the part of worth-while, stout-hearted Americans.

business Monday, but you will find no price changes here because we never take advantage of markets to raise prices after the merchandise has been received at our store. Therefore, the lower March "ceilings" are already in effect... We publish this announcement to acquaint you with the facts and to aid you in adjusting yourselves to wartime conditions as they affect the furniture business—and to help you in making decisions as to the future needs of your home.

About Deliveries:

We are instructed not to make deliveries in the same area twice in the same day unless trucks are completely loaded. Further, our gasoline consumption must be reduced 25% over the corresponding months last year. To save this fuel and tires, it is necessary to curtail deliveries until trucks are filled with orders. Therefore it may be necessary for you to wait a day or two for deliveries. Please carry with you any small articles you purchase.

About Credit:

Of course you can still buy furniture on credit. The limit of time we may allow is 12 months and the required down payment on furniture is 20%. There are certain articles we sell that require up to 33 1/3% down, with 12 months to pay the balance. As always, every price tag in our store shows plainly the cash price.

And, if you wish, you're cordially invited to use your charge account. The new regulations require that all charge purchases be paid for by the 10th of the second month following the date of purchase.

Pity. Not Love Has Motivated Many Marriages

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX—Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage—Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

"Pity is akin to love," said a poet, and here's a concrete example of his wisdom.

"I left college in my junior year and became a floor manager in a department store," said "P.B.T." "I became interested in one of the girls in the office. She is very pretty. I knew she liked me a great deal, but I was just 'passing the time' with her.

"My mother and sisters are a bunch of silly snobs who imagine they are what are left of the crowned heads. And they get a lot of notions that they're better than some people.

"One evening while I was out with this girl, I suggested we drop in and see my family. The poor kid was treated with the cordiality one might expect toward a burglar.
They withered her with sarcasm.
And when she made such slips in grammar as 'I did it' instead of
'I did it,' or 'should have went' instead of 'should have gone,' they would find excuses to correct what she had said. On the way home she cried and said very little except that we'd better break up, as my family didn't like her," the letter continues.

Wants Engagement Ring

"Then something queer happened.
It seemed as if I fell in love with her immediately, perhaps because of the way my family treated her. I just felt sorry, I guess, and said when I could afford it we'd get married. Now this young lady and I are engaged. I'm satisfied that I love her, but I wish things had come about differently.

"I wish I could change her manner of speaking. Also she thinks an engagement ring the most important thing about an engagement. I think it would be very embarrassing for me to give her one while we're both employed in the same department store, and we have no plans at all.

"She's willing to take a chance and be married immediately, although I couldn't afford to live anywhere but at home with my folks. And over all this, I am expecting to be taken in the draft,"
the letter ends.

After reading your letter carefully, I've come to the conclusion that you have become engaged to this girl for two reasons, and love —deep, true love such as one needs to stand the daily grind—plays no part in either one of them.

She's pretty, you liked her, and your family was unkind to her.

Naturally this aroused your pity—and pity is the most deadly of love poisons.

Army May Solve Problem

Your family's behavior was the greatest special pleader the girl could have had. You wanted to "snow" them they couldn't treat a friend of yours the way they did.
Your method of striking back, while it does credit to your heart, has not done credit to your head. Going into the army will probably solve your problem.

You have no prospects of maintaining a home, or even helping to maintain a home. And you are expecting to leave for camp very shortly. The girl has qualities which disturb you. She demands an immediate marriage without any forethought as to how you can take care of a home. She wants a ring which you can't afford to give her.
Her manner of speaking isn't correct.

She has none of the staying qualities to take you, or anyone else, through life. She may improve, she may develop into the type which will prove to be a real helpmate—but wait and see. Never become engaged, or marry, to spite your family or anyone. That's cutting off your nose to spite your face.

More Life with Father

Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I've been going 'steady' with a girl for over two years. She is 19 and I am 25. We wish to get married but the girl's father forbids it. He doesn't even want his daughter to have boy friends. He's an orchestra leader and is never at home and when he is he makes things miserable around the house. He wants everybody to cater to him.

My girl and I work away from our home town. We both send home money to our parents and keep enough to live on comfortably.
My parents like the girl, and everybody except her father likes me.

My girl friend wants us to elope and get married, but I always wanted to show my friends

a good time at a big wedding.
This would be a pleasant impunity to me. If her father catches us together, he goes home and vents his anger on his wife, so we try to keep out of his sight. Please advise us what to do.

FRED.

As you two young people are both self-supporting, it's a question in tion.

my mind how much you should defer to the wishes of father.

You'd save considerable money if you would defer to the wishes of the young lady and go off quietly to be married, than if you gave the big wedding your generous impulse prompts.

Considering the times and the mounting cost of things, you should give these two types of wedding ceremonies your earnest consideration.

Final Rites Held
For Ensign Beck
In Martinsburg

Former Frostburg Resident Dies in Plane Crash at Rosedale Field

FROSTBURG, May 21—Funeral services for Ensign David B. Beck, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Karl H. Beck, who was killed in an airplane crash in line of duty, Monday, May 11, at Rosedale Field, Calif., a naval flying base, were held Wednesday afternoon from the home of his aunt, Mrs. Mae Breidebaugh, Martinsburg, Pa.

The services were conducted by the Rev. A. H. Schmeusser, pastor of the Evangelical and Reformed church, Tiffin, Ohio, assisted by the Rev. Dr. B. A. Black, Meyersdale, Pa., and the Rev. Irvin F. Kracke, this city.

Praises Bravery
The Rev. Mr. Schmeusser delivered the sermon in which he paid high tribute to the bravery and patriotism of Ensign Beck. Telegrams were also read from Secretary of the Navy Knox and the commanding officer of Rosedale Field, where the accident occurred.

Other ministers attending the services were the Rev. John Detune, Berlin, Pa., and the Rev. Dr. A. V. Casselman, head of the missionary department of the Evangelical and Reformed church in the United States.

The services were largely attended and there was a profusion of floral tributes sent from many sections of the country, also scores of telegrams from men in the armed forces and civilians offering their condolences.

Cousins are Pallbearers
Pallbearers, all cousins of Ensign Beck, were Gifford, Louis, Howard and E. S. Breidenbaugh, Richard Bolger, Eugene Myers and William Loch. Interment was in Fairview cemetery, Martinsburg.

Protestants who attended the services were Miss Elizabeth Hartig, Mesdames Elizabeth Taylor, John F. Smeltzer, Minnie Lehr, Marshall Skidmore and Mr. M. C. Ferrie.

Entertain Guests

Col. and Mrs. J. Frank Richmond, came here Saturday to visit Mrs. Richmond's mother, Mrs. H. B. Colborn, 51 West Main street.

Col. Richmond, commander of the fifteenth Cavalry Regiment, Fort Riley, Kan., in which his son J. Frank, Jr., is a first lieutenant, left Monday for Baltimore, while his wife remained here for an indefinite period.

Other guests at the Colborn home over the weekend were Mrs. Colborn's daughter, Mrs. James P. Reardon, Winchester, Va., and her son, A. Jackson Colborn, Fairmont, W. Va.; also Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Charles G. Meehan, Birmingham, Ala. Mrs. Meehan, the former Miss Diana Richmond, is a granddaughter of Mrs. Colborn.

Eagles Elect

Edgar Shuck was elected president of Frostburg Aerie, No. 1273, Fraternal Order of Eagles at the annual election of officers held Monday evening.

Other officers named to serve with him were Louis Race, vice-president; H. J. Steel, chaplain; Thomas H. Morgan, secretary; Olin Gunnert, treasurer; George Henckel, conductor; Kenneth Pollock, inside guard; Harry Shuckhart, outside guard; Jack Evans, trustee for three years; Dr. W. O. McLane, aerie physician; Leo Chambers, Russell McMurdo, Kenneth Pollock, Edgar Shuck and John Rank, delegates to the state convention in Frederick, June 9, 10 and 11.

Harry Stevens, Louis Race, H. J. Steel, Hugh Donahue and Harry Shuckhart, were alternates to the convention.

Plan Dance

A dance, sponsored by the Sunday school class of Mrs. Katherine Todd, will be held Friday from 8:30 to 11 p. m., in St. John's parish house. The sponsoring class, consisting of young men, is inviting young people to attend. Refreshments will be served. With a view of making St. John's parish house a social center for young people, Mrs. Todd's class will hold other dances and social affairs in the future.

Give Music Recital

The annual piano and voice recital, given last evening at State Teachers college by pupils of Prof. and Mrs. Maride Matteson, was attended by friends and relatives of the young musicians. Those taking part were Suzanne McLane, Samuel Walker, Jr., Margaret Whitson, Dorothy Glen, Doris Grove, Alma Moore, Charles Gower, Adelyn McLane, Helen Jane Jones, Betty Wilson, Virginia Wott, Harriet Brodie, June Lee Shade, Velma Richmond, Jane Kester, Marion Elbeck, Howard Blank, Mary Lou Dunn and Betty Oiler.

$58.83 Collected At Mt. Savage for Army-Navy ReliefCollections Are Taken by Girl Scouts in New Majestic Theater

MT. SAVAGE, May 21—The drive for the Army and Navy Emergency relief fund here netted $58.83, Miss Yolanda Bishields stated today. The drive was sponsored by the New Majestic theater for the past week and Miss Bishields, manager of the theater, acted as chairman.

Nightly collections were taken up in the theater by members of the Mt. Savage Girl Scout troop. The collections were aided by the co-operation of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, the Mt. Savage volunteer fire company and St. Patrick's executive committee. A brief motion picture feature was shown every night, asking the audience to contribute to the fund.

Delegates Return

Delegates of the Youth Fellowship group of St. George's church returned yesterday after attending the rally of the organization of the Diocese of Maryland in Baltimore. The rally opened Saturday night at the Pro-Cathedral, Baltimore. Sunday the group were special guests at services in St. Margaret's church. The Rev. Percy C. Adams, former rector of St. George's church, officiated.

Delegates attending were Miss Georgiana Nader, Miss Harriet Theodor, Miss Louise Barnard, Miss Amy Turley, Miss Mary Margaret Herring and Miss Margaret Johnson, and George Turley, Junior Voit, Roland Nader, Evan Rowley, Bobbie Crump, Stanley Turley and Wilson Sweeney.

Brief Items

The Mt. Savage volunteer fire company will sponsor a dance tomorrow (Friday) evening at Melody Manor. Music will be furnished by Marty Flynn and his Society Ramblers.

The Mt. Savage Boy Scout troop will meet Monday evening at 7 o'clock in the recreation hall of the Methodist church.

Personals

G. W. Slonaker Dies

George Washington Slonaker, last of the Confederate veterans of Hampshire county, who recently achieved his ambition to round out a century of living, died yesterday in the one hundred first year of his life at his home near Capon Bridge. He celebrated his one hundredth birthday on April 27 with "open house." He appeared to be in good health, but during the past week, his health began to decline.

He was a native of Hampshire county and during the Civil War he served in Company F, 33rd Virginia Regiment, which was attached to Stonewall Jackson's famous foot cavalry. Slonaker was engaged in farming throughout his life.

Three sons and three daughters survive. Funeral services will be conducted Sunday with interment in the family graveyard.

Mr. Slonaker owned a pet partridge for several years. A picture of the bird posing on his shoulders appeared in newspapers. The partridge died a year or two ago.

To Interview Veterans

Carl B. Sanders, post commander, announced that George T. Knoke, deputy veterans' service officer, of Clarksburg, will be in Romney Tuesday, May 26, in the afternoon at the American Legion Hall to interview veterans or their dependents wishing information or to file claims.

To Hold Election

The regular annual municipal election in Romney will be held Tuesday, June 2, in the fire house. The polls will be open from 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m.

A mayor will be elected for one year to fill the unexpired term of Blair M. Haines; recorder for a two year term; one councilman for a one year term to fill the unexpired term of John C. Linthicum, and three councilmen for the term of two years.

All candidates for any of these offices must file a certificate of intention, subscribed and sworn to before some officer qualified to administer oaths and file with the recorder not less than ten days before the election. Blank certificates can be obtained at the Municipal office.

Fire Destroys Saw Mill near Grantsville

Damage Estimated at $7,- 000 to $10,000; Cause
Is Unknown

GRANTSVILLE, May 21—Damage estimated at between $7,000 and $10,000 was caused early this morning when the saw mill just east of town, operated by the Marquette Bailey Lumber Company, was leveled by fire. The blaze was beyond control when it was discovered shortly after 2 a. m. Grantsville firemen were on the scene within a few minutes after the alarm sounded and their prompt action enabled them to save the stock lumber. The building and machinery, however, including a new Diesel engine recently purchased at a cost of approximately $3,000, were completely destroyed.

The cause of the fire could not be definitely fixed as, according to reports, there had been no fire in the boiler for several days, but it was thought to have originated in a pile of lumber. Much of the damage, however, was covered by insurance.

Club Has Meeting

Mrs. C. Lee Beachy was hostess to members of the Community Club at its May meeting held at her home yesterday afternoon. Miss Marianna Lee Long, county home demonstration agent, addressed the session on the subject of "Foods of Today, and the Canning Budget." The preparation of foods, the quantity of canned food necessary for family needs, and garden soil problems were features of the discussion.

The local group decided to join other Homemakers clubs in the county in sponsoring a clothing project. Miss Long outlined the work at yesterday's meeting. All persons in the community are asked to contribute their discarded clothing for the project. The club members, together with volunteers, will then make the garments over into wearable clothing which will be distributed among the needy families in this section.

The small house on the property of Mrs. Ida Harshberger will be used to store the contributions, which may be left with Mrs. Hobart Speicher.

Among others participating in the afternoon's discussion were Mrs. C. J. Giotflety, Mrs. C. C. Beachy, Mrs. Marshall Beachy, Miss Ethel Broadwater, Mrs. Ollie E. Leechel, Mrs. W. Harold Miller and Mrs. Carrie Beachy. A brief social period followed the meeting, during which refreshments were served.

Two Men Fined

Two men from this section were fined in the Magistrate's court here yesterday for violation of motor regulations. Harry Durst, Grantsville, was arrested at the intersection of Routes 40 and 219, just east of here, by State Trooper Graydon S. Dunlap, who charged him with failing to stop at the junction sign. He pleaded guilty and Magistrate Charles S. Zeller fixed his fine at $5 and costs.

Lawrence Stanton, Frostburg, paid a fine of $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty to charges of operating a commercial vehicle in excess of the forty mile per hour speed limit. He was arrested by Officer Dunlap on Route 40 west of Frostburg.

Brief Items

Herbert Mason, Jennings, was treated at the office of a local physician yesterday for injuries suffered when he ran a spike in his left foot when he stepped on it while at work in the Morgart Coal Mine at Jennings. The physician dressed the wound and administered anti-tetanus serum, after which Mason was removed to his home.

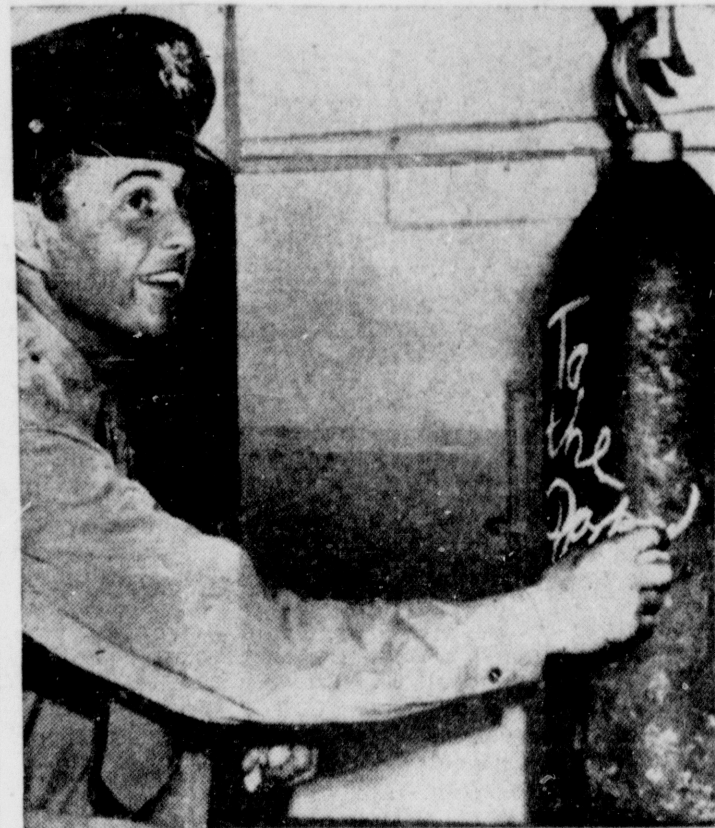

Seventh grade students from all of the schools in the Grantsville area, who expect to enter high school in the fall, will register at the Grantsville school tomorrow (Friday). They will also participate in the track meet to be held here on that date and attend the play, "Wings Over Washington," which is to be presented in the school auditorium by the high school Dramatic Club.

Harold E. Stanton, Brooklyn, N. Y., who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Urban Stanton, for a few days, left today for Port Dix, N. J., where he will enter military service. Mr. and Mrs. Stanton also have as their guests for a brief visit, their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stanton, and small son, Jimmie, Aurora, W. Va.

Elmer W. Ashby Is Stationed in Okla.

CRELLIN, May 21—Elmer W. Ashby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ashby, who entered the army in April, is now stationed at Will Rogers Field in Oklahoma. He was employed by the Celanese Corporation in Cumberland prior to entering service.

HERO INSCRIBES BOMB TO JAPS

Smilingly chalking a message on a bomb manufactured at the National Tube Company in McKeesport, Pa., is Captain Hewitt Wheeler, hero of a bombing flight in the south Pacific. The flier, who piloted a plane that bombed six ships, for which he received the Distinguished Service Cross, is making a tour of defense plants. The message, as you've probably guessed, reads: "To the Japs."

Friendly Suit Is Won by Garrett CommissionersDecision on Road Work Will Save Taxpayers
Thousands of Dollars

OAKLAND, Md., May 21 (AP)—Two Garrett County Commissioners today said taxpayers would be saved thousands of dollars through an opinion by Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan regarding contracts on county roads work.

Judge Sloan gave the opinion in a friendly suit between the commissioners and state roads commission to clarify two sections of the law regarding such construction.

The decisions in effect gave the commissioners power to construct roads without asking for bids or making a binding contract, and said they also had the power to hire by the day or unit to an unlimited degree.

Law requires the state roads commission to advertise and make contracts on any construction estimated to cost more than $1,000, but Judge Sloan held that this provision was not mandatory upon the county commissioners.

Commissioners Cheston H. Browning and Paul M. Friend said this meant the commissioners could now construct highways that cost only $10,000 to $12,000 per mile rather than $30,000 to $40,000 per mile, a cost they said often was necessary when they were forced to make a contract for the work.

In another part of his ruling, Judge Sloan held that the commissioners could hire a man and his truck for a certain amount per day, and that even though the total cost might exceed $100, it was not necessary to advertise for bids in such cases.

This procedure, without advertising for bids, was followed in several instances in constructing both the Rockledge and Smouse roads from money allocated to the county from the gasoline tax fund.

The roads commission, however, had held up payment of bills totaling $6,797.62 for this work, holding the law made it mandatory to ask bids. The two parties then sought the court ruling to clear up that point, and determine whether the bills should be paid.

THREE-YEAR-OLD CHILD BURNS TO DEATH IN GARRETT

OAKLAND, Md., May 21 (AP)—Barbara Ann Brown, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, was burned to death today in a fire that destroyed the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Bertha Hoyer.

Mrs. Hoyer said she had built a fire in the kitchen stove, left the house to milk a cow, and glanced up later to see the house in flames.

Oakland firemen concentrated on a corner room of the one-story bungalow where the child was sleeping. John Stevenson reached her from a window and brought her from the burning building fatally burned about the face and arms.

Stevenson was burned slightly on the face.

The child's father lives in Chestertown. Her mother, the former Lucille Hoyer, lives in Morgantown, W. Va.

Woman Goes On Trial for Murder At Petersburg

Miss Flora Van Meter Is Charged with Killing William F. Redman

PETERSBURG, W. Va., May 21—Miss Flora Van Meter, 25, white, indicted at the April term of circuit court for murdering William Frederick Redman alias Zan Redman, colored, March 28, this year, went on trial here this morning.

According to evidence given by Seymour Watts, Miss Van Meter and Redman had been living together in a small cabin near Cabins, W. Va., and on Saturday, March 28, they came to Petersburg where Redman got drunk.

Watts testified the couple had several quarrels and that after arriving home in a car driven by Dale Bennett, Miss Van Meter went into the cabin and came out with a shotgun.

Testimony was to the effect that she shot to scare Redman and Watts but that the charge struck Redman in the left arm near the elbow.

The shooting took place at mid-

TWO SUITS AGAINST B. AND O. ARE MOVED TO WASHINGTON CO.

Records of two suits totalling $6,000 damages against the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company were transmitted yesterday from Allegheny circuit court to Washington county for trial there.

The suits were entered December 29, 1941, by Gailther L. Martin, 950 Frederick street extended, for himself and his son, following an accident on the Frederick street crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks on August 2. Damages of $5,000 are asked by Martin and $1,000 by his son.

William A. Gunter, attorney for the railroad, asked for the removal on the grounds that a fair trial cannot be obtained in this court.

Martin asserted in his declaration that he was driving his automobile over the crossing when it was struck by the engine of a Baltimore and Ohio railroad train.

He declared he was knocked forty feet from his automobile by the blow, suffering a fracture of his left leg and cuts about his head and body.

The son, according to the declaration, suffered a cut on his head that severed an artery and caused a loss of blood, resulting in a highly nervous condition.

V. M. I., Alma Mater of Army Chiefs, Celebrates Its Own Memorial Day

Maj. Gen. John Magruder, Maj. Gen. Simon B. Buckner, Jr., Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett, Brig. Gen. Arthur G. Campbell, Maj. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow
Parade ground at Virginia Military Institute

Maj. Gen. William P. Upshur, Maj. Gen. Philip B. Peyton, Gen. George C. Marshall, Maj. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., Maj. Gen. Walter Weaver

By WILLIAM A. BAKER
Central Press Correspondent
LEXINGTON, Va., May 21 — In America's armed forces around the world, wherever two or more graduates of the Virginia Military Institute foregather on May 15, "the Charge of the V. M. I. Cadets at New Market" is traditionally observed.

The army officers that V. M. I. can claim as its own include Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff; Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett, second in command of the United Nations' forces under General MacArthur; Major General William P. Upshur (Marine Corps), Philip B. Peyton, Leonard T. Gerow and John Magruder, and Brig. Gen. Arthur G. Campbell.

Major General Simon B. Buckner, Jr., George S. Patton, Jr., and Walter Weaver, and Brig. Gen. Thomas Jonathan Jackson Christian, also attended V. M. I., but were graduated from West Point. General Christian is a grandson of the Confederate hero, Thomas Jonathan (Stonewall) Jackson. Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd was a cadet at V. M. I. for two years before transferring to Annapolis.

While V. M. I. graduates have distinguished themselves in the various wars the United States has fought during the century of the school's existence, the Institute's proudest heritage is the valor of 209 cadets and six officers who turned the tide of the Civil War battle of New Market, north of Lexington, just 78 years ago.

The cadets' average age that day was 18 years; two of them were only 15. Through shells, grapeshot, canister and bullets, they charged a Union battery that was supported by a brigade of infantry, captured several guns, broke the right center of the Union line, and were highly instrumental in a decisive victory for the Confederate army. The Cadet Corps lost 10 killed, 47 wounded.

Ceremony May 15
These Confederate dead will be honored in an annual ceremony here on May 15. Members of the present cadet corps will be assigned to represent the 10 boys who lost their lives as the result of the battle of New Market. At roll call when the name of each of these is read a cadet will step two paces to the front, salute and report: "Died on the field of honor."

V. M. I., entitled to wear a battle streamer on its colors, is said to be the only school in the world to have gone as a unit into an important battle.

carried at New Market and later ripped to pieces to prevent the Union troops from capturing it are to be seen in the Institute museum, which is opened to the public. Among the exhibits, also, is a sword of Commander Matthew Fontaine Maury, "the pathfinder of the seas," who was professor of physics at V. M. I. after the Civil war.

The most important collection consists of "Stonewall" Jackson's relics, and, according to Miss Nellie Tracy Gibbs, custodian, the most treasured object in the museum is a black raincoat which is displayed, under glass, to show a bullet hole in the left shoulder. It is the coat the 39-year-old corps commander was wearing when mortally wounded by a volley fired by his own troops on the night of May 2, 1863, after the first day's battle of Chancellorsville, Va. Jackson, who had been an instructor at V. M. I., was buried from the Institute exactly one year, almost to the hour, before the New Market charge.

Film of V. M. I. Life
V. M. I. is known to many motion picture patrons as the locale of "Brother Rat," a portrayal repudiated by cadets. The "Rat System" corresponds in a general way with that of the "Plebes" at West Point. The entire Rat, or Freshman, year might be called a probationary period; "Old Cadets" do not even consider the Rats a class until after the graduation parade.

Rats may not talk with one another within certain limits in and about the barracks, and they may not smoke except in their own rooms. In the mess hall Rats must sit and eat in various prescribed ways and they are served after their superiors.

A Rat may call a particular upperclass cadet by his first name after "Bloody Sunday" (Easter), if he has been taken into the cadet corps with certain ritualistic hazing by the upperclassmen.

The Rat class as a whole is "taken in" usually the last Sunday before the Wednesday of graduation, when the corps "beats the Rats up the steps." The "Old Cadets" leave the mess hall first and block the four flights of steps to "Rat Barracks."

The Rats run the gamut of straps and paddles used on them by members of all three upper classes, and when they get to the fourth stoop they are "Old Cadets."

Some unsympathetic outsiders may appraise V. M. I.'s Rat System as a combination of juvenile silliness and harsh, protracted bullying, but neither officials nor students at the school seem to hold this view. Upper class cadets regard the Rat period as the making of the cadet — straightening him up, casting off the ways of civilian life, instilling military habits, teaching him to take orders. Rats, accepting their miserable lot, explain that "the Rat System is a very old custom."

The air is charged with custom and tradition at V. M. I., where

"The West Point of the South," as V. M. I. is often called, is not a government school that awards army commissions, but a state school—in effect, a college of engineering—that confers degrees. Academic standards are high.

Students wear the cadet uniform at all times and live the life of soldiers, but the federal government's connection with the Institute consists in maintaining units of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. Most of the cadets upon graduation are commissioned second lieutenants in the officers' Reserve Corps. Almost all of last year's 142 graduates are now on active duty. During the first World War 1,830 V. M. I. men were in the armed services, and 87 of them were killed. Not more than 5 per cent of the Institute's graduates enter the army in peacetime.

Doghhouse Awaits Tardy Soldier

PORT DEVENS, Mass., May 21 (AP)—First Sergeant Jack Young received a wire from one of his men, a private who was overstaying a three-day pass.

"No alibi except weather and good time. Prepare doghouse arrive Friday"—so ran the honest private's message.

And with equal frankness Top Sergeant Young answered by telegram—collect: "Doghouse prepared. See you Friday, son."

Want Ad Headquarters
Cumberland Evening Times

I want to indorse your paper's often repeated claim that "Want Ads Bring Results"; also, to express my appreciation for the privilege which is accorded us all to use that medium through which a great percentage of the public can be quickly contacted.

Last Saturday about 9 a. m. I lost a set of keys in the very heart of Cumberland's business district. It might be added that they were of value enough to cause me considerable worry for a time afterwards.

On the advice of a friend I had a Lost Ad inserted in the "Times", my first venture in such an undertaking, then skeptically awaited developments. A copy of the ad is attached for your convenience.

At 10:15 p. m. the same day I was delightfully surprised to learn by 'phone that the keys had been found and could be secured at a certain address.

Naturally I am very grateful for the finder's cooperation in the restoration of the keys, but the point I want to make is that without the Times Want Ad section the achievement would have been practically impossible under the circumstances. Here is absolute proof that people do observe the page and that "Want Ads" do pay.

Many Holders of X Cards Are Not Entitled To Them, OPA Rules

BALTIMORE, May 21 (AP)—Some Maryland dentists, physicians, defense workers and salesmen obtained X cards believing they were entitled to them merely because of their profession or occupation. State OPA Administrator Leo H. McCormick said here.

"OPA regulations clearly provide," McCormick said in a prepared statement, "that physicians, nurses, surgeons, osteopaths, chiropractors or veterinarians are not entitled to an X card unless all or substantially all of the use of their car is in making professional calls and rendering service."

"Many defense workers apparently felt they were entitled to X cards if they carried other defense workers while going to and from their place of employment. These workers do not come within any of the X classifications and are entitled only to a B card."

He added that "in cases where delivery is incidental to the use of a car, the owner is not entitled to an X card."

A steady stream of Maryland motorists were exchanging X and B-3 cards for lower classifications, McCormick reported.

Will Recruit Negroes For Marine Corps

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—Secretary Knox has announced that recruiting of negroes for the navy and marine corps would begin June 1.

Negroes accepted for the navy will receive the eight weeks of recruit training at the Great Lakes station and a specialized six weeks course at Hampton Institute, Va., where electricians, carpenters, shipfitters, machinists, cooks, and other similar trades will be instructed.

The first marine battalion of negroes, numbering approximately 900 men, will form a composite battalion including all combat arms of the ground forces. Until a training center is ready for negroes in the marine corps a temporary center will be in the vicinity of New River, N. C.

Negro enlistees in the navy construction battalion will enter the Norfolk, Va., training station.

More Sugar Allowed For Home Canning

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—Sugar allotments for home canning have been liberalized.

Under a new regulation, home canners will be entitled to one pound of sugar for every four quarts of canned fruit, and an additional pound of sugar for each member of the family to make jams, jellies, preserves and fruit butters.

Previous regulations restricted each sugar ration cardholder to five pounds for home canning. If this amount has already been used in putting up early fruits and berries, it must be computed in any new canning allotment.

The liberalization was made, Price Administrator Leon Henderson said, to conserve fruit which might otherwise be wasted and to supplement commercially canned supplies, thereby reducing the burden on transportation facilities.

The president of one company announces that $95,203 was paid to employees for suggestions last year. Most of these suggestions dealt with ways of speeding or improving war production.

Impatient Draftee Helped by Police

TOWSON, Md., May 21 (AP)—A prospective draftee's impatience to be drafted landed him in jail here. Police saw the 35-year-old draftee-to-be sitting in a doorway across the street from his draft board office, gazing fixedly at the office door with a bottle of beer in one hand.

He told police he was to be drafted tomorrow and didn't want to miss his call at 7:30 a. m. Police gave him a night's lodging—in jail—and assured him he'd be at the draft headquarters bright and early.

Dennis Morgan Plays Screen Doctor

Is there a doctor in the house? That famous old call used to ring through many a theater at a critical moment. It doesn't anymore. These days if anyone is looking for a doctor in a movie house, the place to find him is on the silver screen.

Dennis Morgan is the latest to join the ranks of screen medics. He plays a physician in a new Warner Bros. picture, "In This Our Life," in which he shares stellar honors with Bette Davis, Olivia de Havilland and George Brent. The film is currently at the Strand theater. Morgan is a happy man now that he's received his screen M.D. According to him, no actor has attained his majority until he has taken up the doctor's kit and garb.

But the best thing about playing a doctor on the screen, according to the newest graduate, is the feeling of authority it gives you over the other characters. "Whenever the going gets tough, as it does in 'In This Our Life' when my wife, Olivia, starts asking embarrassing questions, all I have to do is pick up my little black satchel, say I have an important case, and beat it. 'It's an easy way to make a quick exit. That I like."

Chester Morris Solves Mystery in Boston Blackie

Chester Morris as Boston Blackie blasts a mystery that even baffles cops and killers in "Alias Boston Blackie" now showing on the Embassy screen. It's the strange case of the midnight prison show... the phony clown... and the lovely dancing girl. Also in the cast are such well known actors as Adele Mara, Richard Lane and George Stone. The associate feature brings you favorite westerners to the screen in an action packed film "Down Rio Grande Way" starring Charles Starrett and Russell Hayden. Also chapter number 9 "Dick Tracy vs. Crime."

Dietrich Plays Madcap Actress

There is probably only one feminine star in Hollywood who could manage the first entrance Marlene Dietrich makes in "The Lady Is Willing," Columbia comedy with Fred MacMurray at the Liberty theater.

Marlene plays a madcap Broadway actress in this picture, definitely on the daffy side. The fun starts when, just like that, she "adopts" seven-month-old Baby Corey, Hollywood's "Wonder Baby," on the street, and, in her initial scene, walks in the front door of her eye-filling seven-room apartment. La Dietrich makes the entrance with the baby, peasant-fashion, on her hip.

LOVERS IN "IN THIS OUR LIFE"

Olivia de Havilland and George Brent play the roles of two people who are brought together by their mutual unhappiness. Scene is from Warner Brothers' stark film, "In This Our Life," starts today at the Strand theater.

SCENE FROM TECHNICOLOR HIT

Joseph Calleia and Patricia O'Rourke play exciting roles in Rudyard Kipling's "Jungle Book," the Alexander Korda technicolor production, which is now showing at the Maryland theater.

Action Film, Western Now at Garden

Edmund Lowe, currently at the Garden theater in "Flying Cadets" for Universal, claims the world's largest individual collection of sheet music dating back to the old barbershop quartet era. As a hobby he has collected original printings of more than 300 compositions.

During production of "Flying Cadets" Lowe entertained his fellow players by singing some of the almost forgotten hits of yesterday.

William Gargan, Peggy Moran, and Frank Albertson are featured. Neil O'Day and Anne Nagel, feminine leads in Universal's "Stagecoach Buckaroo" at the Garden theater, will never use the phrase "more fun than a picnic" again. The two actresses set out for a picnic in the film and get into lot of trouble when they are kidnapped by stagecoach bandits.

Cedar Breaks National Monument, in Utah, was visited by 15,762 persons during 1940.

Jewelry Covered Idol Shown in "Jungle Book"

Solomon in all his glory was never arrayed like the huge idol in the treasure chamber in Alexander Korda's Technicolor production of Rudyard Kipling's "Jungle Book," starring Sabu and now playing an engagement at the Maryland theater.

Rubies, emeralds, diamonds, amethysts and other precious stones adorn the idol that watches over a fabulous collection of gold, precious stones and pearls that rival the wealth of America's gold supply in the vaults at Fort Knox. Squared in the center of the idol's forehead is a glistering ruby which weighs 600 carats.

Actually, the ruby is the largest topaz to be found in California. It was dyed red, and would deceive even an expert on gems at a short distance. No feminine screen star in the history of Hollywood ever wore as much jewelry in a film as does this idol. Ropes of pearls dangle from its neck and arms. Priceless silk robes are studded with every conceivable precious stone. In its hand it holds a scepter studded with rubies, diamonds and emeralds.

Lochner Reports German Leaders Face Hard Tasks

Hitler, Goering and Others Make Frequent Appeals to People

(Louis P. Lochner, chief of the former Associated Press Bureau in Berlin, with an insight into German life gained by almost twenty years in that country, is now free on neutral Portuguese soil after five months' internment in Germany).

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
 LISBON, PORTUGAL, (AP) — At the same time that Nazi propagandists poke fun at Winston Churchill's consistent reminders to the British people that he has nothing to offer them but "blood, sweat and tears," Hitler, Goering, Goebbels and their satellites are calling upon their German compatriots for greater sacrifices even than those demanded by the British prime minister.

In season and out, Nazi spellbinders are telling the German nation that more economic sacrifices, greater labor, increased exertion, more stoppages of industries regarded as non-essential, and the loss of more blood, more lives, and more limbs are in store.

Goering Asks Sacrifices
 This year started out with Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering's appeal to the nation culminating in: "The future can be mastered only by a people which, with iron determination, is ready to make every sacrifice, willing to fight without fear of death and labor with the utmost exertion. We are

IT'S BACK AGAIN

Sixteen days later Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels warned that hard times were ahead and exhorted the nation to ever greater exertion. "More important than the question of when the war is to end is that of how it will end," he said. "If we win it everything is won x x x if we were to lose it everything and more would be lost, namely our very national life itself."

Then Came Hitler

There followed Hitler's Sportpalast speech Jan. 30, on the ninth anniversary of the Nazi seizure of power in Germany. Again sacrifice was the theme. "German fellow citizens at home! work! create munitions, manufacture weapons, then create more munitions, manufacture more weapons!"

From time to time, the idea of sacrifice gave way to an appeal for patience if the war is longer than expected.

On German Memorial Day, Hitler reverted to the idea of universal sacrifice by all Germans. He predicted demolition of the Russian forces this summer.

Funk Shows Alarm

On March 17, Economics Minister Walther Funk told stockholders at a meeting of the Reichsbank that if the German people did not produce sufficiently the reichsmark would slip.

No German leader realizes better the necessity of hard work in the ensuing months than Goering, executor of the German economic plan. Greater achievements than last. "I know your greatest and most pressing worry is the securing of sufficient help. So long as German farmers, farmers' sons and agricultural workers are at the front in great numbers you get along as best you can with prisoners of war and foreigners as stop caps whom, by daily instruction, you develop into useful aides."

About the same time it was announced that farm hands during the planting season must work on Sundays. It was specifically stated that although other workers would have May day off, farmhands must work as usual.

Goebbels, in a speech March 24 once again warned that hard times are ahead: "Let victory at any price be our slogan x x x It has become generally clear that the third year of war demands a severer conduct of the war leadership than was necessary in the initial stages. In cases where rigorous prosecution is essential, relentless, radical measures must be undertaken."

Goebbels, as one of Hitler's confidants, then already knew that the fuhrer would demand from the Reichstag a month later the extraordinary powers of absolutism to dismiss any official, military or civilian.

In several speeches that month, Goebbels stressed the inevitability of even greater sacrifice and even hinted that the present generation might never enjoy the fruits of its efforts.

"Our time is one," Goebbels shouted, "which demands being shaped and which, therefore, forbids that one enjoy it."

With utterances like these dinned into their ears the German people were hardly surprised, though shocked nevertheless when the full truth of the situation burst upon them, to have Hitler declare before the Reichstag April 26:

"Let nobody in these times claim vested rights. Everybody must realize today that duty alone exists. It doesn't interest me whether during this emergency every civil servant gets a vacation or not."

"I won't stand for anybody's

DRAWING GAS 'LINE' IN NEW YORK

These pictures show how New York state's Wayne and Monroe Counties dish out gas. If you are on the side of Wayne (top) you need a rationing card. The young lady holding a card is waiting to get her share of gas. While on the Monroe (bottom) side of the line you can get all the gas you need as no ration cards are required. The smiling operator filling the happy motorist's car has a one pump station. In the background is the county line boundary.

insisting on vacations, which can't presently be granted, being added to some future vacation period. The military front, the home front, our transport systems, our administration, our justice department have but one thought which must be obeyed, namely, the achievement of victory."

Compensation Checks Sent Families of Seven Mine Blast Victims

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 21 (AP)—Compensation checks have been sent to several of the families bereaved by an explosion eight days ago in the Christopher Coal Company's No. 3 mine at Gaige, near Morgantown.

Compensation Commissioner C. L. Heberlin said others will be issued as soon as necessary reports can be completed by field men assigned specially to that area for preparation of the claims.

The deaths of the sixty-one men in the state's two mine explosions within a week may not require an additional payment into the compensation fund although the cost of caring for survivors is expected to approximate $325,000.

A department official explained today that the fund already totals more than $1,000,000, and that an estimated $400,000 will be yielded this fiscal year by the special assessment against subscribers.

State law requires only that there should be $300,000 in the disaster fund for the special levy to be discontinued, at the discretion of the commissioner.

Many lamps will be eliminated, globes of others will be painted, metal shields will be installed and lamps of smaller wattage will be substituted where possible. More than 150,000 lamps will be changed, officials pointed out, that the canopy of light over the city "is the result of millions of lamps the light of which finds its way to the exterior, and is not caused by lighting in New York city alone but probably results also from lighting as far as fifty to 100 miles inland from the sea."

New York Lighting To Be Cut 50 P. C.

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP)—To reduce the sky glow which has all-hounded American ships for enemy attack, New York's street lighting will be cut down at least fifty per cent under plans now being considered.

Officials pointed out that the canopy of light over the city "is the result of millions of lamps the light of which finds its way to the exterior, and is not caused by lighting in New York city alone but probably results also from lighting as far as fifty to 100 miles inland from the sea."

T. Carey Bailly Dies in Baltimore

BALTIMORE, May 21 (AP)—T. Carey Bailly, 55, national authority on hunting dogs, died Wednesday at his home.

Bailly was one of Maryland's best known field enthusiasts and had won bird dog field trials throughout the nation. He was a former vice-president of the Pinehurst Field Trial Club, the United States Field Trial Association and the English Setter Club of Medford, N. J.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday.

A six-year-old boy came home from school one day with a note from his teacher in which it was suggested that he be taken out of school as he was "too stupid to learn." His name was Thomas A. Edison.

TODAY'S VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

VARIETY OF TOMATOES IN VICTORY GARDEN

The old-time pear, cherry and plum tomatoes are not grown for curiosity (even though they are highly decorative) but for use in salads, and especially preserving and pickling.

As illustrated in the Garden-Graph, these tomatoes are so called because of their shapes. This group of small-fruited tomatoes is about one and one-half to two inches long.

YELLOW AND PEAR-SHAPED

There is a Red Pear and Yellow Pear, which are strong-growing vines. Red Cherry and Yellow Cherry are also strong-growing and very productive. There is Yellow Plum, having oval fruits two inches long, and Yellow Husk, often called Ground Cherry. Its yellow fruits are enclosed in a papery husk. This variety is not a true tomato.

If you prefer the large-size tomatoes but would like a contrast in color, include Mingold, the 1940 All-American silver medal winner. This is an excellent early yellow-fruited variety and is very prolific. It has a mild and pleasant flavor. Golden Queen is another good bright yellow, very large and smooth-skinned.

A speed limit of forty miles an hour was made applicable throughout Canada on May 1, the department of Commerce reports.

Federal Narcotics Law Enforcement Is Explained

Bureau Agent Addresses Members of Kiwanis at Meeting

Enforcement of federal narcotics and state uniform laws including the Marihuana law passed in 1937, was explained at the meeting of the Kiwanis club here yesterday by Boyd M. Martin, district supervisor of District Five, Bureau of Narcotics of the United States Treasury Department.

Martin told the Kiwanians that enough opium has been stored in the Treasury department in Washington to take care of the needs of medicine for the next five years.

Government Has Two Problems
Two problems confront the narcotics bureau, Martin said, one is seeing that only the amount of opium permitted by government orders is brought into this country and that under bond and proper supervision.

Martin explained that three manufacturers in this country are permitted to withdraw opium after it arrives in America, and extract the principals from it and sell the drugs to wholesale druggists on government order who in turn distribute it to the proper retail sources and to licensed doctors. Each purchase must be registered with the government, he added.

Persons who sell drugs to the men of America are hindering the war effort, Martin said, telling the Kiwanians that the army will not accept a man who is a drug addict. The same thing applies to men who are users of Marihuana, he said.

Has Interesting Display
The district supervisor had an interesting display of opium, pipes for smoking opium, a lamp used in smoking the drug, a Chinese pillow also used in the smoking process and several cans of opium which he said now sell for $600 each.

Martin gave the Kiwanians some personal experiences to show how the government agents deal with violators of the Narcotics act. He explained that checking on the sale of narcotics by some physicians and apprehending smugglers of illegal drugs into this country are two methods used to check illegal traffic in narcotics.

Lee Minor Dies

J. Lee Minor, retired Baltimore and Ohio Railroad worker, died Wednesday at his home in Martinsburg, W. Va., of complications. He had been in failing health for the past year.

Mr. Minor was a life long resident of Berkeley county and a member of St. Joseph's Catholic church, B. and O. Veterans and the Moose Club.

Surviving are seven children, Elizabeth, Virginia, Jack and Michael, at home; Mrs. A. J. Smith, Clarksburg, Charles Minor, this city; and William L. Minor, Baltimore. Eleven grandchildren, a sister and brother also survive.

LARGENT WILL BE GIVEN HEARING ON 3 CHARGES THURSDAY

George A. Largent, 539 Patterson avenue, will be given a hearing on three charges, failing to stop after an accident, reckless driving and violation of a motor vehicle law when he is arraigned in police court Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. Trooper Harry Harrison, of the state police, said last night.

Largent was arrested Sunday night. When he was questioned Monday he admitted being the driver of the car which struck two children on the east side of Polish mountain Saturday night and failed to stop. Sgt. John H. Doud said.

He was released Monday under bond of $1,000. Joseph Wallizer, 9, Flintstone, who suffered possible internal injuries and bruise burns of the right leg and hip when struck by the car, was reported in a "good" condition last night at Memorial hospital. A young girl with him was reported to have been hit but was not brought to the hospital.

Laborers Will Be Sent To Hawaii Upon Qualifying

Immediate appointments will be made to laborers who qualify for jobs at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, by F. Jerome Kearful, a representative of the United States Civil Service Commission, who is in Cumberland. Applicants may secure information and sign up for the job at the Civil Service office, third floor, post office building. The wage rate starts at sixty-two cents an hour and applicants must be in a fair state of health.

Oscar J. Bolinger Dies At Belleville, Pa.

Oscar J. Bolinger, 69, died at 6 o'clock yesterday morning in his home at Belleville, Pa. after an illness of six months. Heart trouble was the cause of his death.

Besides his widow, he is survived by one son, E. Dare Bolinger, Cumberland; and one daughter, Miss Florence Bolinger, at home. Four grandchildren also survive. Funeral services will be held Saturday in the Church of the Brethren, Huntington, Pa.

Fitch Rites Held

Funeral services for Mrs. Bessie Beatrice Fitch, wife of Arthur J. Fitch, former manager of the Celanese Corporation of America, were conducted Wednesday afternoon in the Lempereur Funeral Home. The Episcopal office for the dead was read by the Rev. David C. Clark, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal church and Communion services were conducted in Hillcrest cemetery.

Mrs. Fitch died Monday in Memorial hospital where she had been a medical patient for a week. Attending the funeral from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Cooper, Pearisburg, Va.; and Mrs. Benjamin H. Blays, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Fitch received a number of cables from friends and relatives in England, the native land of Mrs. Fitch.

Three Local Men To Examine Rifles For Army Service

National Rifle Association Plan Is Approved by Ordnance Officials

Army Ordnance officials have approved a National Rifle Association plan by which three Cumberland men have been designated to examine privately owned rifles which may be suitable for military use.

The NRA plan was submitted in cooperation with a War Department request last month to civilians owning Springfield and Enfield rifles in serviceable condition to sell back to the government those not too drastically altered for army use.

Under the accepted plan the secretaries of the 2,200 NRA clubs and other officials of this nationwide organization have been instructed to examine for suitability all rifles of those types which the owners may wish to return. Serving in the Cumberland area are Russell Robeson, Route #5; Walter Henry, 207 South street, and Adelbert N. Billings, LaVale.

Sportsmen Bought Rifles

In past years many 30 caliber Springfield 1903 and Enfield 1917 rifles have been purchased from the government by sportsmen in this country and may have been radically altered so that it no longer would be practical to refit them to military standards. In order to prevent needless shipping of those guns the War Department directed owners to take their rifles to the nearest army post for a preliminary examination before shipping them to the ordnance depots specified as receiving points. It is believed that with the number of examining experts increased by the recognition of the NRA officials several thousand additional rifles will be turned in by persons not handy to an army post or who have no means of transportation.

The Association disclosed that there apparently had been some misunderstanding among gun owners as to what use would be made of the rifles turned in. As far as can be determined from the War Department they will be used only by American troops.

Scale of Resale Prices
Ordnance officials have indicated that owners who resell their guns will be reimbursed on a scale of prices based on a maximum of $47.64 for Springfields and $12.50 for Enfields of service pattern in excellent condition. Prices will be reduced according to condition, expected life of the weapon and the amount of labor and material required to put the rifle back into "as issued" condition. That payment will not be made, however, until the gun has been received at one of the specified ordnance depots. The decision of the preliminary examiner, whether an army or recognized NRA official, is not to be regarded as official acceptance by the army, nor is any preliminary examiner authorized to make an estimate as to probable payment.

Gun owners are warned not to send their rifles in until preliminary examination has been made and certain special sporting attachments have been removed at the direction of the preliminary examiner.

Rainfall for May Is Greatest Here Since Month of June, 1941

A half inch of rain between 8 a. m. and 12 o'clock midnight yesterday increased the total precipitation in Cumberland for the month of May to 5.19 inches, the greatest amount recorded here since the 1941 high of 5.73 in June.

In spite of the fact that rain has fallen here on five of the last seven days and the precipitation has been 2.81 inches during that period, there is no danger of high water, according to Reid C. Hoenicka, fire chief, who keeps a close tab on the city streams draining the watershed above Cumberland.

On June 3 and 4 last year 3.40 inches of rainfall was recorded here and the streams approached the danger point when clear weather put in its appearance.

The precipitation recordings for this month are:

May 3	.....	.75 inches
May 6	.....	1.46 inches
May 10	.....	.02 inches
May 12	.....	.15 inches
May 15	.....	1.39 inches
May 16	.....	.05 inches
May 19	.....	.36 inches
May 21	.....	.51 inches

Total ..... 5.19 inches

Shrout Will Be Given Hearing Monday Morning

Robert Shrout, Jr., will be given a hearing in police court Monday morning on a charge of maintaining a place for gambling, which was placed against him after city police raided the Boys' Club on Baltimore street early Thursday morning. He was released on $50 bond.

The place was raided on a warrant issued to Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman. Officers making the raid were assistant Chief John J. Triebler, Detective Emmett Flynn and officers Crabtree, Stoffer and Haas. The officers said a card game was in progress at the time of the raid.

721 Passenger

because holders overestimated their mileage when they registered. Barnard said.

Thirty-three per cent of the registrants received A cards, which entitle the holder to twenty-one gallons of gas for 315 miles; nine per cent received B-1 cards for thirty-three gallons for 495 miles and ten per cent received B-2 cards for forty-five gallons of gas for 675 miles.

The number of cards issued for each classification at the initial registration are:

A cards	.....	4,910
B-1 cards	.....	1,423
B-2 cards	.....	1,489
B-3 cards	.....	5,954
X cards (Trucks)	.....	1,500
X cards (Passenger)	.....	721

Total ..... 15,097

Barnard said that the board, assisted by an OPA official, is now engaged in checking all X and B-3 card applications for the purpose of making sure they are properly classified.

Those who feel that the gas they are receiving is insufficient for their essential needs may file a supplemental application with either of the boards in Allegany county, the local chairman said.

Prizes Total $100

will be displayed in the window of the G. C. Murphy Company, Baltimore street, at the conclusion of the meet.

Officials for the meet are Harold Lynch, Cresaptown, contest director; C. A. Murray and Charles L. George, timers; George McA. Young and Edwin Baldwin, Ridgely, W. Va., processors; Dr. Frank E. Stamp, field judge; E. A. Cosgrove, recorder and prizes; Thomas Brown, operations officer; J. B. Waugh, registration officer and treasurer, and J. Wolford, field police.

Details of the meet will be explained by Brother Justin and C. Athley Murray in a broadcast over radio station WTBO Wednesday, May 27, at 7 p. m.

Railroads Doing

Careless Driving Charges Placed Against Two Men

Charges of careless driving were placed against F. G. Alkire, Gratton, W. Va., and Olin Keyser, LaVale, after their cars collided at the intersection of Market and Mechanic streets yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Officer Luther L. Youngblood, of the city police, who investigated said Keyser was approaching Baltimore street when the Alkire car entered Mechanic street from Market. Keyser, Youngblood stated, charged that Alkire did not stop at the "thru stop" sign.

The left back fender on Alkire's car was badly damaged. Youngblood stated, and the license plate on Keyser's car was bent. Neither driver was injured.

The men will be given a hearing in police court this morning.

Heskett Drops Charges Against Eugene Gulick

City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett, dismissed charges against Eugene H. Gulick, 732 Baker street, for buying a used tire after Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., explained the city code does not contain provision for such cases.

Gulick, operator of an auto exchange, was arrested Tuesday by Detective B. Frank Gaffney, who accused him of buying a tire without a license. It was explained that Gulick has a license to operate his business of buying cars, tires and other auto accessories.

Offices at City Hall Given Coat of Paint

Walls and ceilings are being painted a seafoam green and woodwork is being varnished in five city hall offices by the local painting firm of Matthews and Whitman.

The work is being done in Mayor Thomas F. Conlon's office, the adjoining office occupied by Miss Mary Clay, the mayor's secretary; the office of James Orr, police and fire commissioner, and two health department offices on the second floor.

Lettering of the marble directory on the first floor and the various offices is being done by John G. Kliffner, local sign painter.

Injury to Man Is Cause of Raid on Boys' Club Here

A report that a woman pushed Frank Williams, 22, this city, down the stairs at the Boys' club, Baltimore street, Tuesday, led to a raid of that establishment Wednesday night, police said yesterday. Williams is a patient in Allegany hospital where he is undergoing treatment for a possible broken back.

Robert Shrout, Jr., was charged with "gaming" as a result of the raid. Two slot machines and a "craps" table were seized in the place, police said.

John J. Triebler, assistant chief of police, who helped conduct the raid, said, however, that Williams has told several different stories. One is, Triebler said, that he fell down the stairs at his home. The second story is that he reached for a door knob at the Boys' club, missed it and fell down the stairs, Triebler explained.

Hospital attaches last night described Williams's condition as "good."

Fazenbaker Charged With Possession of Illicit Whiskey

James Fazenbaker, of near Bloomington, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Wilbur V. Wilson yesterday on a charge of possession of illicit whiskey and released on $500 bond for a hearing Monday.

Fazenbaker was arrested yesterday by Charles Cushman and David Walker, federal alcoholic tax unit agents, and Howard Loughrie, deputy United States marshal.

Two Men Are Held For Stealing Tire

Two men, booked as Robert B. Wooland, of 23 North Mechanic street, and William Lowe, 148 North Mechanic street, admitted to Assistant Chief of Police John J. Triebler, last evening that they stole a tire Thursday evening from the car of Anton Anthony, proprietor of the Eat Well Grill, while it was parked in the rear of the Mechanic street restaurant, Triebler said last evening.

Triebler said the two men admitted selling the tire to a South Liberty street parking lot proprietor for $15. The tire was recovered yesterday, the assistant chief added.

Both Wooland and Lowe are being held in the city jail without bond. They will be given a hearing before States Attorney Morgan C. Harris this morning at 10 o'clock.

Youths Arraigned For Transporting Stolen Vehicle

Two youths, Donald Lee Elder, 20, and Donald Lee Davis, 19, both of Frostburg, were arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Wilbur V. Wilson on a charge of violating the Dyer act by transporting a stolen vehicle across a state line and released under $1,500 bond each for a hearing today.

Corp. Harold Carl and Trooper A. M. Spinach arrested the pair last week while they were asleep in a stolen truck parked in the woods near Eckhart. They told police they had taken the truck in Mt. Pleasant, Pa. where they left a carnival with which they had been traveling. C. Harris this morning at 10 o'clock.

LaSalle and Fort Hill Nines Will Play Today

Irish Can Take Over First Place With Victory

Fort Hill Is Unbeaten in City Title Series; Small To Pitch

INTRA-CITY SERIES

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Fort Hill	6	0	1.000
LaSalle	2	3	.400
Albany	0	3	.000

An all-out effort will be made by the LaSalle High Explorers to turn back the Fort Hill High Sentinels this afternoon on the latter's field where the local Tri-State Interscholastic Conference and city baseball rivals are scheduled to clash in a return game.

The Explorers, topped 4-2 by the Hilltoppers in the first meeting, can take over first place in both the conference and the city races by turning back the Scarlet and White baseballers.

Fort Hill, setting the pace in the conference with three victories against one setback, has played two less games than LaSalle. The Sentinels battled Hyndman (Pa.) to an 8-8 eleven-inning deadlock while the game slated here Tuesday night was postponed because of weather.

In the intra-city series, Fort Hill's defending champions are unbeaten, having downed Albany in addition to LaSalle. The Explorers' conference record is four wins and two losses while in city competition, the Blue and Gold trimmed Albany twice and lost to the Sentinels.

Each team has capped its last three engagements, Fort Hill stopping LaSalle, Albany and Hyndman, and the Explorers turning back Hyndman, Paw Paw and Albany.

LaSalle will probably have its ace pitcher, Johnny Small, on the mound. Small, a right-hander, has accounted for all of the Explorers' four victories to date. In the four games, he has allowed only nine hits and has a pair of two-hit games to his credit.

Another conference contest is on tap today at Paw Paw with Coach John Marras' outfit entertaining Hyndman, Paw Paw, third in the loop standing with three wins and as many losses, shaded Hyndman 4-3 in the first meeting.

Race Ends Next Week

Next week will see the completion of the conference campaign. On Tuesday, LaSalle will play Hyndman in its final tussle and Albany will close by entertaining Fort Hill. The Sentinels and Paw Paw will get their postponed engagement out of the way on Wednesday.

Regarding the 8-8 tie played by Fort Hill and Hyndman, Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh of the Sentinels announced several weeks ago that the game won't be played unless it effects the conference championship.

Golfers Are Ready For Hale America

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP)—With a record entry list of 1,528, the United States Golf Association today cleared the decks for competition in the largest open links event in the country by announcing entries for the sixty-nine local qualifying rounds of the Hale America tournament.

The tournament, taking the place of the National Open with the Navy Relief Society and United States Golf Association as beneficiaries, will be played in three sections. From the local qualifying rounds will come 522 qualifiers, who will be joined by seventy-four exempted players in the fifty-four hole sectional tournaments, June 5 to 9.

The sectional qualifiers, plus twenty-three other exempted players, will compete in the finals at the Ridgemoor Country Club, Chicago, June 18-21.

Originally, eighty-one local rounds of thirty-six holes each were scheduled for May 24, 25 and 26. Four failed to draw any entries while seven others attracted only one or two entries each. Players in the latter category will be passed on to the sectional competition. A local tournament also will be held in Canada with the two qualifiers going direct into the finals at the Ridgemoor club.

Twelve Californians, who have no local rounds, and sixty-two players exempted because they have qualified for next week's P. G. A. championship, also will not be required to play in the local competition.

Dean To Pitch Against Paige In Sunday Game

Bobby Feller and Zeke Bonura Also To Play in Chicago Tilt

By DAVE HOFF

CHICAGO, May 21 (AP)—Dizzy Dean, for whom the Chicago Cubs once shelled out $185,000 so he could pitch regularly in Wrigley Field, will do a mound chore in the North Side park Sunday for comparatively small change—his share of the players' kitty from a privately-promoted exhibition game.

Associated with Dean, now a St. Louis radio announcer, on the team which will oppose the topnotch negro hurler, Leroy (Satchel) Paige and his Kansas City Monarchs, will be Bobby Feller, Cecil Travis and Zeke Bonura plus a half-dozen lesser known former major and minor leaguers.

Many Now in Service

All of the Dean-team players except the Diz and an ex-minor leaguer named Red Johnson are now in the nation's armed forces and of these at least one, Feller, now in the navy, will turn his share of the cash over to the navy relief fund.

This is as near as the exhibition comes to being eligible for the label "benefit game" or "all-star service team tilt."

But the town is strangely heated up about the game, which threatens to outdraw Sunday's scheduled double-header on the South Side between the White Sox and Detroit Tigers. The big attraction is the dinky pitching Marvel, Satchel Paige, who has never before tossed his smoke-ball inside Wrigley Field.

None of the service men has received special leave for the game. All were due for furloughs and they managed to swing them all at once. Feller (Cleveland Indians) will fly here from Newport, R. I., and Travis (Washington Senators) will come up from Camp Wheeler, Ga.

Bonura at First

Bonura will play first base in the Dean-team infield. He is now at Camp Shelby, Miss. Travis will be at third base with Claude Corbitt (Brooklyn) of Camp Wheeler at shortstop and Emmett Mueller (Philadelphia Phils) of Jefferson Barracks, Mo., at second base.

In the outfield will be Eddie Zydowsky (Tulsa, Texas league) of Camp Grant, Ill.; Joe Gallagher (St. Louis Browns) of Jefferson Barracks, and Red Johnson, Ken Silvestri (New York Yankees) of Fort Custer, Mich., will catch.

And on the mound—J. Dean and Feller vs. Paige.

After the player payoff, proceeds go to the fellows running the show, including T. Y. Baird, owner of the Monarchs; Ray Doane, sponsor of barnstorming tours by Feller, Dean and Babe Ruth, and Abe Saperstein, booking agent for the Harlem Globetrotters, famed negro basketball team.

Nova-Savold Fight Is Postponed Due To Bad Weather

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—Weather caused postponement of Lou Nova's heavyweight bid against Lee Savold, Des Moines, Iowa, until tomorrow night.

Promoter Mike Jacobs said the navy relief boxing program would go on without change tomorrow night.

Nova, who holds a thirteen-pound weight advantage over Savold, was confident of a quick knockout, although he expressed disappointment at the postponement.

A shot at champion Joe Louis' title probably will go to the winner. Jacobs was confident that a turnout of 20,000 fans would contribute upwards of $50,000 to the gate, of which about $25,000 will go to the navy relief fund.

Keegan Tossers Play Delicatet Crew Today

With three clubs tied for second place a game behind the pacesetter Keegan's Collegians, this evening's City Softball League games take on added importance.

The Collegians, with three victories and one setback, will oppose Lacy's Delicatets, who share the runner-up berth with the North End Social and Athletic Club, Bud Ward, Byron Nelson, Lawson Little, Jesse Sarazen, Paul Bunyan, Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, Horton Smith, Harold McSpaden and Jimmy Dwyer.

Athletics Take Over Fifth Place In Junior Loop

Marchildon Hurls Six Hit Ball as A's Defeat Detroit

DETROIT, May 21 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics climbed in to the relatively rarefied atmosphere of the American League's fifth place today by blasting three pitchers for 17 hits and an 11 to victory over the Detroit Tigers that gave them a sweep of the two-game series.

With Phil Marchildon hurling six-hit ball for his sixth victory, all the Mackmen joined in the hit parade on Paul (Dizzy) Trout, charged with his fourth defeat, Charley Fuchs and Hal Manders. Marchildon contributed a two-run single in the second that put the A's in front for keeps, and Lou Blair gathered three hits including a four-run homer in the fifth.

Cardinals Are Rolling because They Are Mad

Southworth Declares He Is Going To Be Tough from Now On

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals are rolling now and the reason is that they are fighting mad.

"I found out I was killing the boys with kindness and encouragement," Billy Southworth, their little, usually good-humored manager, declared today. "The boys thought they were trying hard, but they were just going out there and taking their cuts. They couldn't get any steam up, but I sure began to boil and finally I let go."

Began At Polo Grounds

"It was up at the Polo grounds Sunday," explained the skipper as he paraded up and down his hotel room to get more freedom from his gestures. "The Giants had old Carl Hubbel on the mound and for the first time since I've been managing this ball club he lasted the whole game against us. They scored four runs in the first inning and the only score we made was a home run—and a lefthander, at that."

"So in the second game they scored four more runs in the first inning and boy, I could feel the seat getting hot right under me. I couldn't stand it any longer and I got up and marched up and down that dugout for the rest of the game giving a continuous lecture."

"I save some of my best language for the players coming in off the field at the end of every inning and I want to tell you I worked up a lather. It did some good, too, because we won that game 8 to 6 and now we have won four in a row."

"We've just started to roll and we're going to keep on because we're through being a satisfied ball club. We're going to work and battle every step of the way to the last day of the season and if we aren't on top then, we at least know we have done our best."

Going to Have Batting Practice

"When we get back to St. Louis we're going to have some special batting practice, and I mean in the mornings, for Johnny Hopp and Martin Marion and anybody else that needs it. If necessary I'll get out there and pitch to them myself."

Along about this point Southworth subsided a bit and sat down to discuss the National League outlook with customary managerial calm.

"Brooklyn has a good team. You Dodgers, because they're winning can't take anything away from them and they'll be tough."

"We're 6½ games behind, but I don't think the race will be one-sided and I know it won't if it is humanly possible for us to make a scrap of it. All I ask is that, when September gets around, we're able to be in the middle of one of those breakneck finishes the National League usually has. If we are, we'll be hard to handle, I promise you."

Bobby Jones Applies For Air Commission

Atlanta, May 21 (AP)—Bobby Jones, 40-year-old retired emperor of golf, has applied for a commission in the United States Air Force.

Jones, now practicing law here, said he had not yet been informed as to the status of his application. He retired in 1930 after making his "grand slam." He is married and has three children.

Tough Rawhide

Who was the toughest piece of rawhide that ever came to the ring?

The recent death of Chuck Wiggins brings this argument into the spotlight. For Commander Gene Tunney says Chuck Wiggins was the roughest piece of human rawhide he ever met in a ring—and Chuck picked Harry Greb.

It might be mentioned that Tunney places Greb a close second to the unbreakable Chuck in the way of toughness—not as a fighter, Greb was the fellow Tunney always placed on top as the best man, pound for pound, he ever met.

Wiggins and Greb

Commander Tunney is now helping dynamic Stan Griffis in the Navy Relief drive. We were talking about Wiggins (almost nationally), and about Harry Greb.

"I'll give you two examples," Gene said, "which bring in both men. On my way to my first Dempsey fight I met Chuck Wiggins. At the time I was working on a right uppercut to the body. I was still raw with this punch. As Wiggins came in I happened to hit him low punches on two occasions. Each time the referee warned me. Wiggins could have dropped and claimed a foul either time, and would have been awarded the fight."

"But when the referee warned me, Wiggins turned to him with a snarl. 'Leave us alone,' he said. 'Tunney didn't hit me low. It was a fair punch.' Naturally that stopped the referee."

Later On

"About the fifth round," Tunney continued, "I whipped in with a right body uppercut and I used all I had. Chuck had come in fast and the punch landed low—way below the belt. Again the referee warned me and once again Wiggins told him to get away, that the punch was belt high."

"That was Chuck Wiggins, the toughest man I ever fought," I suggested to Tunney.

"I can't say he was wrong," Gene said with a grin. "I'll tell you something about Greb, too."

"The last time I met Harry he was blind in one eye. Maybe the other wasn't any too good, but he was still something to handle. In one round as Greb came charging in I nailed him with a full right to the body. I could feel my glove against his spine. I saw his mouth fly open and his eyes start rolling. I stepped back to let Greb fall. I knew this was a knockout punch."

"The next thing I knew Harry was on the ropes trying to hammer my head off. I felt for a few seconds that I was in a cage with a wild tiger. I had to finish the round protecting myself. That was Harry Greb."

The Making of Tunney

Commander Tunney will tell you that his battles with Chuck Wiggins and Harry Greb were the two main factors in getting him ready for the first Dempsey fight.

Tunney won't admit that he thinks both Wiggins and Greb were even tougher than Dempsey, but that's how he feels down in his heart. I don't mean harder punches. Neither was a killing puncher. But I mean rough, tough, tohell-with-them, anything goes.

In getting ready for Dempsey I'll

Boston Red Sox Defeat Indians By 8 to 3 Score

Ted Williams Hits Ninth Home Run of the 1942 Season

CLEVELAND, May 21 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox coasted to an easy 8 to 3 victory over the Cleveland Indians today as rookie Tex Hughson won his second game in as many starts with a neat seven-hit performance.

The Tribe's defeat put them a full game behind the league-leading New York Yankees.

Hughson allowed only two hits until the sixth inning, when with the score 8 to 0, Roy Weatherly tripled and scored on Oris Hockett's fly to Dominic DiMaggio.

The Red Sox murderers' row started in the first frame on Mel Harder, and did not relent until they blasted the veteran off the mound with a five-run attack in the third.

Just to make things certain Ted Williams in the next inning whammed his ninth home run over the right-center field wall, scoring Lou Finney, who had walked. The smash, made off Joe Krakauskas, who relieved Harder, was Williams' third straight hit.

Ernie Bonham Hurls Sixth Straight Victory

Registers Fourth Shutout by Beating White Sox 1 to 0

Winning Run Is Forced Over Plate by Walk in Fourth

CHICAGO, May 21 (AP)—Big Ernie Bonham, the pitcher of the young year in the Major Leagues, hurled another breath-taking shutout today as the New York Yankees whipped the Chicago White Sox 1 to 0.

It was the towering right-hander's sixth victory without a defeat this season and his fourth shutout. He allowed only three hits, of which two were bunts, and pitched no-hit ball for the last six stanzas.

The World Champions had their own troubles with the southpaw slants of chunky Edgar Smith, and the only run of the game came in the fourth inning when Smith walked. Buddy Rosar with the bases loaded.

Buddy Hassett singled to open the inning and reached third on a double by Tom Henrich. Joe DiMaggio was purposely passed and then Smith fanned Charley Keller and Joe Gordon to take off the pressure, but Rosar waited out a walk and Hassett trotted across the plate with the all-important tally.

Ban on Buses Will Not Hurt Minor Leagues, Prexy Says

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP)—Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League and a member of the Executive committee of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, said tonight he did not believe government restrictions on chartered buses would have a devastating effect on the minor leagues.

"I understand the ruling of the Office of Defense Transportation is that only the use of chartered or leased buses and does not stop clubs from using buses they own," he said.

"A majority of the clubs in the minor leagues do own their buses and as long as they have gasoline and tires I see no reason why they cannot operate."

"The double A leagues (International, Pacific Coast and American Association) do not use buses and will not be affected."

Baseball Teams Cannot Use Chartered Buses

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—Minor League baseball teams, accustomed to traveling from town to town in chartered buses, will be denied such transportation after June 1, office of defense transportation officials said today.

Such teams fall within the ban announced yesterday by ODT on most operations of sightseeing and chartered bus services.

Questioned as to the effect of the order, if no other means of transportation were available, ODT legal sources commented that the baseball teams probably would "find it pretty tough getting around."

They did, however, that ODT would review any special hardship cases.

Frisch Spends His Day Off Watching Giants-Cards but Doesn't Enjoy It

By IRA WOLFERT

NEW YORK, May 21—Having an off day, Frank Frisch hurried to enjoy it at the ball game.

The Giants, with whom he had won his first fame, were playing the Cardinals, with whom he had started his career as manager. Mr. Frisch was a bare 100 miles away. It was the work of not more than two hours to reach a seat along the first base line, take off his hat and let his gray hair free to wriggle with apprehension.

The first thing that happened Terry Moore stole second on a change-of-pace ball. It was a nice play. Dave Koslo had thrown two fast ones in succession. The odds were three-to-five that his next would be a soft one, not, of course, a floater but what the trade calls a "slow fast ball." It takes a fast ball three-fifths of a second to travel from the pitcher to the catcher. A "slow fast ball." It takes a fast ball about an extra tenth of a second in which to make good his crime. This is hardly enough in a race ninety feet long, but the robber can figure on unearned increments.

Catcher Tenses Up

The catcher, for instance, agonizing through that extra tenth of a second, tenses up and wastes some of the substance in his throwing arm. In fact, there are cases on record of catchers who threw the ball before it reached them and wound up with a passed ball on their records.

The shortstop or second baseman, whoever is covering second on the play, also tenses up in the agony of waiting and occasionally tries to tag the runner before he's caught the ball. In that case, the ball goes into the outfield and the runner pauses to dust himself off on third.

Altogether, baseball men figure that a change-of-pace ball means a present of from ten to twelve feet to the robber. Moore made his steal with about ten feet to spare.

A Melancholy Roger

We viewed the play with admiration. Mr. Frisch with apprehension. Although manager of the Pirates, he is not a jolly roger but instead is known as the melancholy roger, watering whatever joy there is in his life with his own tears. Frisch is prepared to jump off promontories on the slightest provocation. He is said to have the finest collection of promontory maps in the country. He travels a lot in the course of a year and worried so much about being caught somewhere with a fine provocation on his hands and no obliging person to point out the nearest promontory that he had the collection prepared.

When watching the Cardinals and Giants try to beat each other to death—an occasion that might have been expected to give him pleasure diluted slightly by the fact that only one of the two teams could lose—he spent his time worrying about whoever was in trouble out there.

"I did that," Frisch said, referring to Moore's steal. His voice was sad and he looked furtively at the Giant dugout to make sure nobody there could hear him. "Moore came up to me from the South where he was drinking that nickel beer down there and was slow and heavy. I put him on the ten-cent beer and it gave him an outboard motor in his pocket."

Mize hit a home run. Frisch closed his eyes and shuddered at the Cardinals. The Cardinals landed a mess of runs and Frisch wondered if O'Driscoll would live out the day.

Frisch Keeps Tuned Up

The minutes proceeded in each other's wake steadily, haunted by moans, grunts of dismay and little weeping, hurt animal howls from Frisch. After all, there are very few moments in a ball game when somebody isn't in trouble even if it's just a fan trying to keep himself awake.

For a long time we were puzzled. Then we decided that Frisch was just keeping himself tuned up and hounding up a good worrying edge for when he resumes his work in the Pittsburgh dugout. The hypothesis proved correct.

"The Cardinals are going to be a lot higher in the standing before another month," Frisch said. "Southworth started off the season losing a lot of games by one run. That's just bad luck. Then he worked out of that and fell right into a hitting slump. He'll work out of that. Then, lock the door, Kat!"

Mr. Frisch has had bad luck, too. His first baseman, Elby Fletcher, potentially one of the best in the league, is sitting on the bench examining himself to find out what's wrong. Despite that and two or three other little things, the Pirates are furnishing lots of the opposition to the Dodgers.

But we did not like to bring up Mr. Frisch's bad luck in the presence of the melancholy roger himself. After all, Coogan's Bluff was just in back of him and it's about 150 feet straight down to the river—North American Newspaper Alliance.

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, May 21—Connie Mack remarked the other day that the Cleveland Indians definitely were contenders for the American League pennant, but inasmuch as the remark was made at Cleveland there is a possibility that it was seasoned with blarney, as a fellow with any diplomacy at all doesn't walk into another fellow's garden and tell him his prize radishes are nothing but runts.

Mr. Mack never has been accused of being lacking in diplomacy, and if he were invited to speak at the dedication of a new fish pond in city park would find something nice to say, such as that it reminded him of Lake Michigan, although the only similarity would be that they both were wet and had fish in them.

Anyway, it wasn't Mr. Mack's chamber of commerce expression that interested us so much as another statement he made in private. You couldn't very well say that the private statement gave an insight into his character, as everyone knows the sweet old gent's character is an open book.

Will Not Sell Hayes

However, it did impress upon us a trait not always associated with all baseball club owners, who often are pictured as sharp citizens looking for a chance to cut each other's throats, and who would consider a perfect day's work the swapping of some dead-armed old relic represented as a picture of baseball health.

Mr. Mack was asked if there were a possibility that he would make a deal involving his catcher, Frank Hayes, Cleveland was known to have been interested because of the injury to the Tribe's catcher, Gene Desautels.

Mr. Mack denied the possibility, which is not unusual in itself. His reason was enlightening, however. He didn't think a deal involving Frank Hayes would be fair to the other club.

"Hayes is not in 100 per cent condition right now," he explained. "I doubt that he would be a valuable man to the Indians or any other club until he gets in shape. I wouldn't be fair to the club making the deal for him."

Hayes had a knee operation in January and was delayed in starting spring training, consequently picking up excess weight.

A club owner thinking primarily of the welfare of a rival club really comes under the heading of news, but anyone knowing Mr. Mack can't be surprised. The gentle soul who occasionally, under great stress, breaks into such vivid profanity as "goodness gracious" and "my goodness," just can't be associated with anything that wouldn't bear scrutiny in the sunlight.

Has Made Many Deals

He's made plenty of deals, sold plenty of players. Some of the prices he received, particularly when he broke up his championship clubs, look like bank clearance figures.

But as far as we know no parties of the second part ever accused Mr. Mack of pulling a fast one. They got what they paid for, and something a little more. Tom Yawkey can't kick at the $150,000 he put out in the deal to get Jimmy Fox, or the $125,000 involved in the Lefty Grove transaction. Grove didn't have such a hot season the first year he was with the Red Sox, but Mr. Mack sold him as sound goods, and Grove later earned his keep.

All of which doesn't mean Mr. Mack isn't a shrewd business man. When he lets a good man go he gets well paid for him. But he just doesn't believe in taking advantage of his fellow man. Which seems to be the trouble with his A's. They can't take advantage of anything.

Lacy and Keegan Teams Play Today

The softball game scheduled for today between the Lacy Delicats and Keegan's Collegians will be played on the Taylor Mill field in South End if the weather permits.

HIT HIS WEAKNESS

PART OF the strategy of a military or naval commander is to strike the foe at his weakest point, and endeavor to break through there, thus nullifying the value of his strength at other places. It is likewise with the opening lead against a No Trump game. If the player at your right has proclaimed stoppers in the suit bid by your partner, that may be the one place not to hit him. That is definitely so, as a rule, if you have a holding in another suit which affords a promising lead.

Bidding of this deal went almost exactly the same at all tables of a duplicate game. Peculiarly, neither East nor West saw fit to bid the four-card spade suit, in which a perfect fit would have been found. Most of the declarers, however, made two extra tricks, as South opened the deuce of his partner's heart suit.

With the heart lead and return to the K, 11 tricks are easy, as spades and diamonds are then run, a club being given up at the end. Only one South, Andre Lord, decided that the hearts were so well stopped he would try a lead of the club 4. Four tricks in that suit, plus the heart A, set the contract, for a tremendous top score.

Railroads Doing A Splendid Job, Van Sant Says

300 Attend B. and O. Co-operative Spring Dinner-Dance

"The railroads of the nation are doing a splendid job in transporting vital war goods and public opinion has shown its appreciation of that fact," R. M. Van Sant, editor of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad magazine and head of its public relations department, told 300 persons attending the spring dinner-dance of the B. and O. Co-operative Traffic Program last night in the Queen City hotel.

Speaks of Increase
Van Sant explained the terrific increase in rail borne traffic to and from both coasts since water shipments by way of the Panama Canal has dropped off due to a shortage of ships and the menace of Axis submarines in the Atlantic.

The burden placed on railroads by the gasoline shortage is being handled with thousands of tank cars being used to transport the necessary oil to needed points, Van Sant said. In the near future the railroads will be called upon to handle an increased volume of passenger traffic because of the tire and rubber situation and while the old time luxury service will probably not be given the roads will do their best to serve the public, he added.

In regard to tank car shipments of oil by railroads, Van Sant referred to the cover of the current issue of the B. and O. magazine which shows a trainload of tank cars crossing the bridge at Harpers Ferry, W. Va.

Need Oil

The title caption above the picture is "Oil for the Lamps of Freedom," and Van Sant said railroads are vitally interested in seeing that these tank cars go through as the B. and O. system is represented in the armed forces of the United States by 1949 employees. "They need that oil and we see that they get it," Van Sant declared.

A. K. Galloway, Baltimore, general superintendent of motive power and equipment, told the audience that he appreciates the heavy work done by employees of the Cumberland division in handling a heavy increase of rail traffic.

"We are doing a good job so far and have a difficult job ahead," Galloway said, "but we have to see that the men in the front lines have the arms and equipment to win this battle and we have behind lines must not talk a good fight but show metal in action so that our boys will have the tools with which to whip our enemies."

Other speakers who echoed the determination of B. and O. workers to do their part were Harry P. Wyatt, superintendent of the Cumberland division; Mrs. Vada Drumm Barnard, president of the local CTP organization; H. A. Powell, president of the Federated Shopcrafts here; C. N. Fullerton, special representative of the B. and O.; Iva L. Harper, master mechanic of the local shops and E. J. McSweeney, of Baltimore.

William A. Gunter, B. and O. counsel, was toastmaster but he referred to himself as "trainmaster" because a large railroad engine type whistle had been mounted at the end of the banquet hall with "Father Time" acting as time keeper. Father Time blew the whistle whenever any of the speakers went over their allotted time.

The patriotic motif was carried out in the red, white and blue fifteen foot V which was the central theme of the decorations. The Morse code, three dots and dash for Victory was flashed by a green light at intervals throughout the evening. The dinner table decorations also carried out the color scheme with red and white carnations and smaller V's at intervals. Each guest received a miniature (Continued on Page 23, Col. 4)

ATTEND B. & O. CTP DINNER-DANCE—Pledges of continued hard work to transport vital war materials over the B. and O. railroad so that American soldiers will have the necessary tools with which to defeat the Axis powers were voiced last night at the local Co-operative Traffic Program dinner-dance at the Queen City hotel. Pictured, (from left to right seated) are Mrs. Vada Drumm Barnard, president of the CTP; A. K. Galloway, Baltimore, general superintendent of motive power and equipment; William A. Gunter, B. and O. counsel and toastmaster; Mrs. Harry P. Wyatt; and R. M. Van Sant, principal speaker and editor of the B. and O. magazine. Standing, left to right are Iva L. Harper, master mechanic at the local shops; H. A. Powell, president of the Federated Shopcrafts; J. Rex Miller, chief clerk at the shops; E. J. McSweeney, Baltimore; Capt. Harry D. Schmidt; Harry F. Wyatt, superintendent; and C. N. Fullerton, Baltimore, special representative of the B. and O.

David M. Evans Reported Missing In Philippines

Lonaconing Soldier Was Serving with Engineers on Bataan

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Evans, Lonaconing, were notified Wednesday by the War department that their son David Morgan Evans, 22, has been reported missing in action since the surrender of Corregidor, Philippine Islands, on May 7. Drafted in June, 1941, Evans was inducted at Fort Belvoir, Va., where he was stationed until October when he was shipped to Clark field on Luzon island. Later he was moved to Bataan. He was assigned to the Eight Hundred and Third Engineering Corps of the United States Army.

The letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Evans on Wednesday was the first word they had received of their son since he sent a telegram on December 29 saying "I am well." The War department said in the letter it hopes the Japanese government will supply a list of prisoners of war at an early date.

Evans said his son was the only boy in Allegany county, drafted into the army, who was shipped from this country during peacetime although some enlisted men from this section were stationed overseas.

Young Evans was employed in an engineering capacity on the Savage river dam project when he was drafted, his father said. He had completed two years at Potomac State college and one year at West Virginia university when he accepted the job on the dam project.

One of Evans' three brothers, Benjamin H. Evans, Jr., is a captain in the army and is stationed at Camp Lee, Va. He completed the R. O. T. C. course at the University of Maryland.

Another brother, Aleck S. Evans, yesterday filled out his selective service questionnaire. He is completing his freshman year at West Virginia university.

A third brother, John H. Evans, has been classified in 3-A by his draft board. Evans was married in July, 1941, to Miss Jean Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shaw, Moscow.

PURCHASES FIRST POPPY—Mayor Thomas F. Conlon, yesterday purchased the first "Buddy Poppy" in the annual sale conducted by the ladies auxiliary of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Rosemary Everstine, left, daughter of Mrs. Roy Everstine and Hulda Margaret Miller, daughter of Mrs. George Miller, made the sale and the mayor deposited coins in the containers held by both girls, who are daughters of V.F.W. auxiliary members. "Poppy Day" will be observed here tomorrow when auxiliaries of both the V.F.W. and American Legion will solicit funds on the streets and pin flowers on those who place coins in the containers. Each unit has 5,000 poppies, which are made by disabled war veterans in government hospitals, to distribute in the one-day campaign.

The contest is open to anybody residing in the tri-state area and all non-winners will receive complimentary moving picture tickets. Entry blanks with the entry fee should be mailed to J. B. Waugh, Woodlawn, LaVale; C. Athey Murray, 555 Patterson avenue, or presented to officials at the field day of the meet. Winning models (Continued on Page 23, Col. 4)

721 Passenger Vehicle Owners Obtain X Cards

75 Are Returned To Local Rationing Board; 5,054 B-3 Cards Issued in Allegany County

Seven hundred and twenty-one passenger car owners or five per cent of those who registered for gasoline rationing in the schools of Allegany county on May 12, 13 and 14, received the coveted X cards entitling them to purchase unlimited amounts of gasoline, it was revealed yesterday by Robert E. Barnard, chairman of Allegany County Rationing Board No. 1-1.

A total of 15,997 persons signed up during the three-day registration and while 2,221 X cards were issued throughout the county this total included 1,500 trucks which do not require cards under the regulations set forth in the rationing program. It was pointed out that the truck owners took out X cards for their own protection and although they were not required the procedure was not entirely out of order, Barnard said.

75 Return X Cards

Seventy-five passenger car owners who obtained X cards at the initial registration have surrendered them to the local board in exchange for other cards to get into the proper classification, according to the board chairman. He added that the board has received numerous telephone calls and letters from doubtful X card holders and estimated that the total will be reduced from 721 to approximately 600 by the time everything is straightened out.

Barnard stressed the fact that in several instances doctors owning two cars obtained two X cards through a misunderstanding and one of these cards must be returned as no one is entitled to more than one card for any purpose.

50 B-3 Cards Returned

The board's initial registration figures indicate that 5,054 B-3 cards, or thirty-three per cent of the total of 15,997, were issued throughout the county. The B-3 cards are the highest classification for limited purchase and entitles their holders to fifty-seven gallons of gasoline in the period up to July 1, in cases where the B-3 cards more than cover the essential needs of motorists they should be returned to the board in exchange for cards of a lower classification. Approximately fifty of these cards already have been turned back to the board (Continued on Page 23, Col. 4)

Short Circuit Is Blamed for Blaze

South End firemen answered a call to the home of J. W. Ryall, 113 Elder street, this morning at 9:55 o'clock after a short circuit in the electrical wiring caused a blaze. Firemen stated the blaze was extinguished when they arrived and said little damage was caused.

Correction

Ralph Baird, 849 Gephart drive, was erroneously reported as the driver of an automobile involved in a collision with the car operated by Allen Melvin Miller, Wiley Ford, W. Va., on Decatur street, early Monday morning. Miller was charged with careless driving and was fined $5 in police court yesterday. No charges were entered against William R. Baird, Bedford road, driver of the other car. The News regrets the error.

Candidates for the United States Aviation Cadet "refresher" course will report to the B.P.O. Elks home, South Centre street, at 8 p. m., Tuesday, May 26, for physical check-up, it was announced yesterday by Charles M. Stump, chairman of the War committee of Cumberland lodge No. 63.

Dr. Emmett L. Jones, Jr., and Dr. J. K. Rozum, medical doctors, and Dr. Albert Cook, dentist, will conduct the examinations.

Candidates now must meet the standards of the Army Cadet Examining Board before they take their mental examinations, Stump declared. Approximately forty (Continued on Page 7, Col. 1)

HEADS TYPOS—W. Russell Shaner, linotype operator of the Cumberland News, yesterday was elected president of Cumberland Typographical Union No. 244, for his fifth successive term. He defeated C. ## $150 Increase for Teachers Was Not in Budget, Kimble Declares

Says Board of Education Was Not "Sincere" in Its Recommendation

State Senator Robert B. Kimble told members of the Allegany County Teachers Union, an AFO affiliate, last night that if the Allegany County Board of Education had "been sincere" it would have included the recommendation for $150 increase in the regular itemized budget and not have made it a supplementary request at the bottom of the budget listing.

"It appears to me that some sort of political manipulation was used by the board," Kimble said. Enlarging on his statement Kimble said he has always been an advocate of an elective system of choosing members of the board of education.

Says Board Should Be Elected

"In this way the board of education is held responsible to the people and taxpayers and the democratic system of this country is strengthened," Kimble added. He urged the teachers to use their political strength to this end "so that our great system of free education is enlarged so as to both help our children and make secure the franchise of our teachers."

Kimble quoted the laws of Maryland to explain his point in saying that the board of education may in its discretion pay to teachers and principals salaries in excess of salary provided for in this section but that the state shall not share in the payment of any such excess salaries.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners is required by Public Local Laws of Maryland to levy sufficient funds to meet the schedule of salaries drawn by the board of education, Kimble declared.

The teachers union will hold its next meeting Monday, June 8, at Frostburg at a place to be selected later, Herman Ball, union head, announced. This is being done to accommodate teachers of the George's Creek section, Ball said.

Kimble Pledges His Support

Kimble told the teachers he was pledging his unqualified support to their efforts in seeking salary raises. He told them to accumulate the necessary data to back up their request before a meeting of the State Legislative Council.

$9,598 Reported In First Day of Chest Campaign

Goal of $24,932 Is Set by Leaders for Meeting Today

Community Chest campaign officials set a goal of $24,932 to be collected by noon today if the drive to solicit $57,272.77 is to be successful. A total of $9,598 was reported yesterday.

Only one regiment, automobile dealers, has achieved its goal thus far in the campaign, yesterday reporting a total of $202 collected. The goal was $200. Officials said they considered this showing as a good omen inasmuch as automotive business has been affected considerably because of war restrictions. The special gifts section with a total of $6,961 collected, led the other groups when reports were made yesterday at luncheon in Central Y. M. C. A. National firms section reported $545, classified $1,550 and women $542.

Seventeen Per Cent of Goal

These figures indicate, according to campaign headquarters, that seventeen per cent of the campaign goal has been collected. Special gifts sections has subscribed twenty-one per cent of its goal, national firms nineteen per cent, classified nine per cent and women nine per cent.

Although the total report yesterday was not as large as had been expected, officials said they were confident that the campaign will be a success. Inclement weather was blamed for the showing.

FUTURE OF LOCAL RUBBER WORKERS WILL BE DISCUSSED

An open meeting will be held Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock by Local 26, United Rubber Workers, CIO, at the Rubber Workers hall, South Mechanic street, to discuss the future welfare of employees of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company and those who are furloughed from the plant. It was announced last night by Raymond C. Burkhardt, union president.

Various provisions of the seniority rating of Kelly workers will also be discussed, he added. It is expected that N. H. Eagle, international representative of the URWA will come here from Akron, O., to attend the session, Burkhardt said.

Burkhardt said 270 Kelly workers who have been dismantling and cleaning up the plant have been furloughed. He also said that contractors are now engaged in putting in new flooring and wiring at the plant.

Delay in Construction of Savage River Dam Causes Concern Here

Lack of Sufficiently High Priority Ratings Is Stumbling Block

Delay in the construction of the Savage River dam project elicited the concern of chamber of commerce directors at their monthly meeting yesterday afternoon at its headquarters in the Liberty Trust building.

The work of moving 940,000 cubic yards of dirt for completion of the dam embankments has been held up as the result of the lack of sufficiently high priority ratings for machinery and machine parts.

Bids for the work were duly retified for but no bids were received as no contractor would risk the chance of getting stuck for lack of the necessary machinery.

Priority Ratings Sought

The War Production Board has failed to allow the priority ratings needed despite vigorous efforts of the Upper Potomac River Commission to
